Cool Chicago.
They Would Not Change.
It Will Come Back.
Martin Luther's Rules.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.

COOL WEATHER here, and in Milwaukee, up the lake, where half the day was spent. A great blessing is the big lake in summer, cooling the air, storing up heat to be released in winter.

ONCE A YEAR the government of New York City should visit Chicago and Milwaukee, to study the beautiful lake front improvements in those cities. Beautiful parks, monuments and architectural effects where mud flats used to be, magnificent lawns, used by the people, exactly as though parks were made for ordinary human beings.

Some Chicagoans admit that times might be better, and Milwaukee has its troubles, although nothing that good light beer will not cure. But the people out here would not change with anyone, or any place else.

From the lake front, they look to the west, at a mountain range of skyscrapers, to the east lies the beautiful blue lake, to the south the great exposition celebrating a century of science, that will open next spring, and to the north, the "gold coast," where Mrs. Potter Palmer built her house, when the world was young, and everyone with ten millions or more builds or will build.

Any nation that has created this middle west, since the big fire, will not let any depression discourage it.

JOSEPH UIHLEIN, present head of the well known Milwaukee family, on the way to the St. Paul station, points out a corner lot:

"My father told me to buy that corner, long ago. I thought the price too high, but he said 'Go and buy it, I told you, son,' so I bought it for $145,000, from the church vestry that owed it, and thought I paid too much. Long since we sold it for $1,600,000, to the crowd that built that thirty-story hotel on it."

THAT IS HOW things have been going in America, and that is how they will go again. And you need faith in your country and its people no bigger than a grain of mustard seed to believe it.

To share in the prosperity coming you must have something in invest. Martin Luther, as Mr. Uihlein reminds you, gave good advice in his Lebensregeln, "Rules of Life."

First he tells you to trust firmly in God, zuerst vertrau auf Gott recht fest, then reminds you that you must save money, which he calls the greatest lever in the world, spar' das geld, den groesten hebel in der welt.

TERRE HAUTE reports unpleasant rioting in connection with Indiana coal strikes. Seventy-five non-union men and women workers were surrounded by 3,000 strikers, acting as pickets. Militia, called by the governor, hurried to the disturbed area. Workers, union and non-union, were armed. One was killed, eight wounded.

Airplanes accompanied and reinforced the militia, a new feature in labor troubles.

MANY BELIEVE that when work starts throughout the country with old time energy there will be, for a time, lower wages, in all directions low enough to tempt investment by employers, with reasonably certain profits on the investment.

Even in Russia, labor cannot hire itself. That would require real co-operation, and the world is several centuries removed from anything of that kind. Selfishness will long remain the world's chief mainspring.

ALREADY, THE change is seen. Farmers can hire good workers for twenty to twenty-five dollars a month and board. In Wisconsin unskilled labor is abundant at twenty cents an hour.

Lower wages necessarily mean slower recovery of old-fashioned prosperity. It is not the bosses' profits, but the spending of workers' earnings that creates good times.

MAN PROPOSES and heaven disposes. Samuel Insull built for Chicago an opera house that, for grandeur, would make Babylon's hanging gardens look like a back yard in a small town.

It is a skyscraper opera house, of course, and Chicago's opera, plus Chicago's gold and love of music, were to make Chicago the center of great artists, and big pay.

BUT THE DEPRESSION came, like the Simoon or Ouragan, and Chicago's opera plan folded up gently. Now the plan is to have grand opera at vaudeville prices, artists to take for pay their share of the receipts.

That need not mean inferior music. The nightingale and the American hermit thrush sing their best, with no charge. Low pay will develop new and perhaps better singers. There was a time in his career when Caruso would have been glad to get three dollars a night, a time when you could have hired both De Reszkes for two-fifty each.

THE "PEA PACK" for the year is small, according to the Department of Agriculture, only nine to ten million cases of peas being packed this year, against the 1921 to 1931 average of 17,000,000 cases.

One of the surprises awaiting housekeepers is the preservation of sweet peas, berries and other food products, for an indefinite

REDS DELAY BONUS VETS' EXODUS

BULLETIN.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4.—One-third of the bonus army has evacuated Johnstown.

The second trainload today has been loaded and was scheduled to move west at 3 o'clock. Another train, the last, was to move eastward over the Pennsylvania System. Officials estimates said 2,500 men have left.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4.—Propaganda by the Workers' Ex-Service Men's League today delayed the evacuation of the bonus army from Camp McCloskey. After a three-hour effort Mayor Eddie McCloskey succeeded in inducing more than 1,000 veterans to board a train and at noon it pulled out for the West. The train had been scheduled to leave at 9 a. m.

After the first train departed last night carrying 356 victims, distribution was made of mimeographed circulars denouncing the commander, W. W. Waters, and Mayor McCloskey, saying these two had "sold out the veterans," and urging the men to remain.

McCLOSKEY'S PLEA

McCloskey when he learned of the circulars rushed to the field, and by personal talks with the men induced them to leave. Fourteen coaches made up the train. All were filled. It was predicted by railroad men that demobilization would be 75 per cent complete by tonight.

It was whispered among the veterans that a steel company was financing the special trains which are whisking the veterans away from Johnstown.

The next train out will be to the East, according to Mayor McCloskey, routed over the Pennsylvania lines, because the Baltimore and Ohio would take the veterans through Washington.

Several groups remained in camp after the departure of the noon train, determined not to go home. Some of them said they had no homes to go to.

WITHOUT HOME

Homer Dollar, former captain of the 111th Infantry, and once a resident of Pittsburgh, said:

"I have no home. My wife is with me. We came from Cleveland, where I was discharged from a hospital with no funds. We joined the bonus army, but where will we go now"?

There are 20 other families in the same plight, Dollar said.

Few autos have left camp. The men, it was said, were promised "stickers" for their cars which would assure them gas and oil on the trip home. The "stickers" have not been issued. Mayor McCloskey was attempting to communicate with Gov. Pinchot to obtain fuel for the cars within this state, and governors of other states were asked to promise fuel as the veterans were en route.

REFUSE TO DISBAND

Numerous groups were firm in their determination not to disband. A unit commander offered this explanation:

"Go home? Where are our homes? We have none."

Big George Anthony, of Cicero, Ill., captain of the Chicago contingent, said he was taking his group back to camp in Springfield, Ill. Capt. Doak E. Carter, who resigned as chief of staff of the Bo-

Clark Puzzles Pirates As Leaders Drop Fifth in Row

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, Aug. 4.—The Pittsburgh Pirates suffered their fifth straight defeat here this afternoon when they dropped the first game of a doubleheader to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Floyd Vaughan, sensational kid shortstop of the Pirates, was out of action today owing to an attack of ptomaine poisoning. The ailment was slight and Vaughan was able to don a uniform. It was felt he would play Saturday. Tommy Thevenow went to the shortfield for the Buccos.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

SECOND INNING

BROOKLYN—Lopez singled to left. Clark sacrificed, Traynor to Suhr. Taylor walked. Stripp hit

U. S. REFUSES RELIEF SUM TO STATE

Penna. Has Not Done Enough for Self, Pomerene Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.) — The Reconstruction Finance Corporation today refused to extend any destitution relief aid to Pennsylvania at this time.

Gov. Pinchot and other state officials had requested an immediate loan of $10,000,000 and said they would ask later for another $35,000,000.

Chairman Pomerene, in a brief statement, said the board felt that the Pennsylvania Legislature and various political units in the state had not done all they could to aid in the situation.

Therefore, he said, federal relief would be withheld at this time, although the board felt that some aid should be given later.

SECOND APPEAL

Pinchot appeared before the corporation Tuesday and returned today with other state officials to renew the plea.

Speaker Jay Goodnough, of the Pennsylvania House, told the board the relief needed in the Keystone state was "desperate." He added the belief the request was justified because for many years the state "had contributed one-tenth of the total income of the federal government, amount-

HEAVY TRADING BOOSTS STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The stock market surged up to the best average levels since early April in further successive waves of buying today, but the advance was interrupted by intermittent waves of profit taking, and by early afternoon some of the extreme gains of $2 to nearly $6 a share had been cut in half.

Trading volume was the largest in several months.

Around the best levels the market, as measured by price averages, registered the extraordinary advance in quoted value of about 50 per cent since its June 1 low, which had again been duplicated in early July.

Recent market history records nothing approaching this percentage gain in an equal period of time.

Taunts at British Mar Dublin Walks

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug 4.—(AP.) — Dublin awoke this morning to find that in the night someone had gone about the city painting anti-British slogans on the sidewalks of nearly every street.

"No surrender," they read, and "Boycott British Goods." Efforts by the police to erase the inscriptions were futile.

Human Interest At the Olympics

The best human-interest story that has come out of the Olympic games thus far appears in today's sports section.

It is the inside story of the duel between Eddie Tolan and Ralph Metcalfe, Negro aces, in the 200-meter dash final, won by Tolan after his disputed victory over Metcalfe in the 100-meter final.

The runners themselves tell of the agony of the race, the fears that beset them, the exhaustion at the finish. It was Tolan's last race. He's going to hang up the spiked shoes.

FOUR CONVICTS KILLED, 3 HURT AFTER BREAK

Escape Foiled When Guards Surround Men in Field

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., Aug. 4.—(AP.) — Four convicts were killed and three wounded in a daring break from a prison camp stockade and a subsequent gun battle between the fugitives and officers today.

Seven convicts, one of whom killed a trusty serving as a guard at the stockade here, were surrounded by officers in a wood 25 miles from the prison and three were shot to death, two were wounded and two others surrendered.

R. G. Jones, a trusty who was blamed by authorities for organizing the flight and killing Else Howell, the trusty serving as a guard, was one of those wounded.

TRUSTY SHOT TO DEATH

Jones also was blamed for wounding Cecil Allen, another trusty serving as a guard. Howell was shot to death when he resisted attempts of the escaping convicts to take his rifle.

The convicts seized what guns and ammunition they could carry and dismantled all other fiearms at the camp before fleeing on horses.

Allen was struck over the head with a gun and slightly wounded when he sought to foil the escape. Early reports from the officers who took part in the gun fight did not state which convicts were killed.

CRIMINALS SURRENDER

Later advices, however, disclosed the convicts killed in the gun battle were Loy Smith, 23; J. D. Brown, 25, and Hershel Chaney, 23, all serving short terms for burglary and grand larceny. They were residents of Arkansas.

Everett Wackerley, serving a life term for murder in Franklin County, was shot in the right knee and Jones was shot in the right arm.

Jack Slayton, 20, and Walter Higgins, 20, also serving terms for burglary and grand larceny, were the two who surrendered after the fight.

GARFIELD BANK TO PAY AGAIN

Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, today ordered the receiver of the Garfield Bank, 4761 Liberty avenue, to pay its second advanced distribution to depositors of 15 per cent. It will be payable Monday, August 15. Amounts under $1 will be paid at the bank in cash while checks will be mailed for larger amounts. The first distribution, 25 per cent, was paid March 21.

Deputy Constable Dies in Automobile

Volpes Slayers' Hunt Pressed in Farrell

Bazzano Faces New Grilling; Slayers' Car Clue Traced

From Pittsburgh and Cleveland the search for the killers of the three massacred Volpe brothers today led to Farrell, Pa., where the police took into custody a man said to have boasted that he knew "something" of the killings.

The prisoner was listed as Harry Herd. He gave an address in Moore avenue, South Hills.

Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the Homicide Squad, ordered Detectives Harry Scott and Frank Crowley to Farrell to question the prisoner.

Ferris said the man had not only boasted he had information about the murder of the liquor racketeers, but also was being sought by police.

GUNMAN BELIEVED KNOWN

While the sleuths were hurrying to Farrell, Lieut. Ferris, back from Cleveland, ordered the reluctant Sam Bazzano brought back for questioning. Bazzano, at liberty on bail, was found trembling behind a counter of the Rome Coffee Shop—where the shooting occured—a few minutes after the killings, but detectives

Pope to Heat Vatican With Electricity

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Pope Pius has decided to heat the Vatican palaces, including his own apartment, by electricity from the new oil-burning electric plant, and to enlarge the powerhouse built in Vatican City two years ago.

His nephew, Franco Ratti, who recently was appointed consulting engineer without pay, was the one who convinced the pontiff of the desirability of modernizing the plant.

BARES CLASH OF TWO FLIERS

Mrs. Keith-Miller on Stand 6 Hours At Trial

Capt. Lancaster's Own Story on Page 3.

By LARRY SMITS
International News Service.

COURTHOUSE, MIAMI, Aug. 4.—A suggestion that they end their lives in a suicide pact was made to Haden Clarke by Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller only two hours before Clarke was found on the sleeping porch of her home with a bullet through his brain, the Australian aviatrix testified in Circuit Court today.

Capt. William N. Lancaster, British flier and war hero, whom the state is striving to send to the electric chair for the young writer's death, had retired, Mrs. Keith-Miller said.

"FOOL SUGGESTION"

She said:

"I was leaning back against Haden. The situation seemed impossible. I then made that fool suggestion about suicide. I said: 'I wish we could put an end to it all.'

"Haden said: 'Yes, I do, too.'"

This testimony conflicted with her statement from the witness stand previously when she said she and Clarke briefly discussed suicide before Capt. Lancaster's return to Miami, then never touched on the topic again.

Chief Defense Counsel Carson delved completely into the relationships in the strange household where Mrs. Keith-Miller, Capt. Lancaster and Clarke lived and where Clarke suffered the gunshot wound which ended his life.

Mrs. Keith-Miller testified Clarke flew into three towering rages the night of April 20, one which she in a fit of tears put her arms around Capt. Lancaster, again when Clarke accused Lancaster of trying to regain "Chubbie's" affections by talking of his flying experiences, and again when he heard Lancaster and Mrs. Keith-Miller laughing in another room and accused them of laughing at him.

REVIEWS TRAGEDY

Under Carson's searching questioning, Mrs. Keith-Miller went over again the events of the tragic night in which her fiance was killed.

Her story of the shooting varied from the account drawn from her only in being greater in detail.

She also went into further details of her intimacy with Clarke. She was on the stand over six hours when court recessed.

Pittsburgher Leads Nicaraguan Attack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—A United States Marine corporal, Joseph M. Broderick, of Pittsburgh, Pa., led a Nicaraguan guardia patrol in a surprise attack on bandits near Jinotega Province July 30, and routed the bandits, the Navy Department was advised today.

Three bandits were killed and one wounded. After scattering the outlaws the patrol destroyed two large bandit camps. There were no guardia casualties.

Hearst Newspaper Poll Results Tabulated

First results in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States are now being tabulated in Washington.

Hundreds of replies received from residents of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, a part of the 312,296 ballots distributed to the men and women of Pennsylvania, have been forwarded to Washington where the totals will be tabulated and included in the initial announcement of the result.

More than 3,500,000 ballots were mailed to voters in every congressional district and county of every state in the Union. These cards filled out to indicate their choice for president, are being sent to 18 regional poll headquarters set up in cities where Hearst newspapers are published.

A special staff of clerks and statisticians is devoting full time to the counting, tabulating and analyzing of the ballots forwarded to Washington. When the staff has completed the analysis of a sufficient number of the replies to present a representative cross-section of the political mind of the country, the results will be published simultaneously in all Hearst newspapers.

Pet Dog Goes to Jail; Chased Park Squirrels

"Jiggs," pet fox terrier of Mrs. Rollo McBride, superintendent of the Parting of the Ways Home, 1 East Stockton avenue, where discharged prisoners are given a new start in life, spent the greater part of an hour behind the bars of North Side Police Station today.

"Jiggs", and more particularly his attendant, Thomas Madison, 29, Negro, of the home, were charged with annoying squirrels in West Park, in violation of a city ordinance.

Police of a radio car sent in response to complaints of nearby residents, said Madison was urging the dog to bark at and thereby annoy a squirrel it had treed.

Madison and the dog were released from custody on a $15 forfeit.

TROOPS RESCUE 80 TRAPPED IN MINE BY SNIPERS

5,000 PICKETS ROUTED BY SOLDIERS

Victims Without Food 41 Hours Saved; 4 Men Shot

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 4. — National Guard troops early today rescued 79 men and one woman from the Dixie Bee coal mine, where they had withstood a bloody siege of 41 hours.

Frantic with thirst and hunger, the beleagured men and the lone woman, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, 27, were liberated by detachments of the state militia, who drove up to the mine entrance in trucks.

With the approach of the troops the 5,000 union miners, who laid the bloody siege, retreated into the adjacent cornfields and underbrush.

Four wounded nonunion miners, who had lain in agony within the mine throughout the prolonged gun battle, were rushed to St. Anthony's Hospital here, where one of them was reported dying. Mrs. Thompson was also brought to the hospital in an ambulance for medical examination.

RESEMBLES BATTLEFIELD

The Dixie Bee mine area, located at Pimento, 12 miles south of here, resembled a shell-torn battlefield when the troops, summoned to the scene under a proclamation of martial law, lifted the siege, which has already cost one life and left at least eight men wounded.

The mine buildings and nearby workers' dwellings were bullet-riddled and partially wrecked. Windows were shattered and parked automobiles in the vicinity were perforated with bullet holes, attesting to the fury of the battle.

Dramatic stories of hair-raising escapes from death and thrilling rescues fell from the lips of the woman and the men who were making their last stand in the boiler room and engine house when the soldiers arrived to snatch them from their desperate plight. One of the miners said:

"If the troops hadn't come, all of us would have been dead before sunrise."

CRY FOR WATER

A detachment of soldiers from Company B of the 151st Infantry was the first to enter the beleaguered mine. The haggard and soot-black miners, crazy from thirst, rushed up to their rescuers, screaming:

"Water! Water! Do you have water?"

The guardsmen passed their canteens around and the miners eagerly drank. One of them said:

"I've been drinking water from the boilers. I feel rusty."

Mrs. Thompson, wife of Herman Thompson, a barn boss, was carried out of an empty boiler, where the men had placed her for safety. The story she related revealed John Ross, one of the nonunion workers, as the outstanding hero of the siege. She said:

"I was in the kitchen of our home, near the mine, Tuesday morning. I was preparing dinner when, all of a sudden, I heard the crack of guns.

BULLETS FLY

"Bullets began flying all around me. They broke all the windows, and they spattered on the walls.

"I fell flat on the kitchen floor and lay there for some time while the firing grew hotter and hotter.

"Then, John Ross came crawling through the door. He picked me up and carried me into the mine, running across an open space of 100 yards under heavy fire.

"I believe I owe my life to John Ross."

The miners, in their rough and picturesque vernacular, paid tribute to the bravery of the woman. One of them said:

"All that time she was in the boiler with the slugs peppering away. She never so much as let out a peep."

BOMB DARKENS 3 OHIO TOWNS

ATHENS, O., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—A reign of terror caused by dynamiting broke out in the strike-torn Southern Ohio coal fields early today, demolishing a store at Chauncey, endangering the lives of four persons and plunging Athens, Millfield and Chauncey into darkness when power lines were wrecked.

Strike pickets are suspected of having touched off the blast, Sheriff Wayne Wingett and Ohio National Guard officials announced.

Windows were shattered, merchandise was hurled into the streets, a gaping hole was ripped in the floor and the manager, his wife, their 2-year-old son and an employe were severely shaken when the store of the Manhattan Coal Company at Chauncey was dynamited.

The manager, Charles Kennard; his wife and son and Fred Brown, Kennard's assistant, were sleeping in their apartments on the second floor when the dynamite let loose.

LIFE SENTENCE GIVEN SLAYER OF GIRL

Quick Vengeance for Swamp Dweller After Attack

International News Service.

LUDINGTON, Mich., Aug. 4.—Francis (Rusty) Nash, 31-year-old recluse, today pleaded guilty to the murder of pretty 17-year-old Evelyn Sanford and was sentenced by Circuit Judge Hal Cutler to life imprisonment. He was sentenced to serve the remainder of his life at hard labor in solitary confinement in Marquette prison.

Armed state police and sheriff's deputies held the crowd in check when Nash was taken from an automobile that brought him here from Traverse City and escorted him into the courtroom.

The crowd of 400 persons who packed the courtroom broke into a loud cheer as sentence fell from the judge's lips. It was taken up by others outside the courtroom.

Miss Sanford was attacked and killed by Nash last Saturday night as she was en route to her home, near Free Soil, Mich. The attack occurred in a swampland through which she had to pass. Her body was recovered yesterday while police were grilling Nash.

The stolid Nash was unmoved by the sentence and the spontaneous demonstration of the spectators. The crowd, hostile and threatening to lynch him yesterday when the girl's body was uncovered from its grave in the basement of the abandoned house, was more peaceable after sentence was passed.

State police and sheriff's deputies, however, formed a guard for Nash as he was hurried through a back door to the Ludington jail in an automobile.

Nash said he had nothing to say when the Judge said he might make a statement before sentence was passed.

Armstrong Aide Given State Job

Michael J. Verosky, county purchasing agent under the late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, today was named assistant chief appraiser for the inheritance tax office, with headquarters in Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell's office here. The pas is $2,500. The appointment was announced by the Auditor General's office at Harrisburg in an Associated Press dispatch.

Speeding Engineer Loses Train in Rush to Shore

Bystanders, waiting to meet returning excursionists, shouted:

"Hey, mister! Where's your train?"

The engineer looked and found he didn't have any. Twelve cars carrying 300 passengers had become uncoupled a mile down the track. The engineer backed up and got them.

MILLS HERE GET P. R. R. ORDER

Two Pittsburgh steel concerns have been awarded a considerable part of a 7,000-ton order of steel to be used on the Pennsylvania Railroad's new station and viaduct at Newark, N. J. They are the McClintic-Marshall Corporation and the Fort Pitt Bridge Works.

Whether any more men will be given employment at the bridge works will depend upon the size of the individual "job" orders released by the railroad, company officials said.

VOLPE HUNT ON IN FARRELL

have been able to learn nothing from him.

In Cleveland Ferris said he found out enough to convince him that one M. Pagano, also known as Pagarro, was one of the gunmen.

FOURTH BROTHER HELD

Ferris found that Pagano had bought the killers' car in Cleveland, but search for the man in the Ohio city failed. It is believed that Pagano is the same who obtained license plates for the murder car by buying a second car in Overbrook two weeks ago in the name of Pignata.

Lieut. Ferris said he had ordered two girls to report for questioning this afternoon. The girls are supposed to have seen men who might have been gangsters leaving a Hill district rooming house the night of the murder. Ferris said he places no faith whatever in this tip.

County detectives injected themselves into the investigation when the sleuths arranged to have employes of the Universal Motor Company in Mt. Oliver look at the Bertillon photographs in an effort to pick out a suspect. It was from this company that one Sam Pignata, who seems to have disappeared, bought a car, the license plates of which later were found on the killers' car.

While the investigation proceeded, a constable plastered a landlord's warrant on the Wylie avenue coffee shop and closed its doors. The landloards, Samuel R. Cohen and Victor Silverman, took this step to collect $65 monthly rent until the lease expires next April.

The troubles of these three Volpes, whether they were troubles of a booze war or a "numbers" war, were ended, but one of their survivors, Joseph Volpe, 21, of Wilmerding, had his own. Today he had been held for court on a morality charge by Justice of the Peace John T. Small, of Wilmerding. He is accused of taking to New York Dorothy Nemitz, 18, and Sarah Elizabeth Nemitz, 15, of Pitcairn. Only the younger sister returned.

REYNOLDS GUN WITNESS HEARD

Grand Jury Told of Futile Search for Death Weapon

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Aug. 4. — Stewart Warnken, who assisted in the three futile searches for the gun which killed Zachary Smith Reynolds was called as a witness today before the grand jury considering the mystery death of the 20-year-old heir to $15,000,000.

The revolver was found on the fourth search of the sleeping porch where young Reynolds was fatally shot after a festive party. It was in a conspicuous position.

'GUN ANGLE' VITAL

The "gun angle" of the investigation into the Reynolds death has been considered by officials as one of the most important pieces of evidence tending to show that a crime had been committed.

All those who searched the tragedy chamber after Smith died in the hospital, testified at the inquest that the revolver was not on the sleeping porch during the first three examinations of that room.

Sheriff Transou Scott declared that the gun apparently was placed there afterwards.

Warnken brought into the grand jury room a large blueprint diagram of the interior of "the cottage," the show place residence of the Reynolds estate in which the tragedy occurred.

The diagram included an enlargement of the sleeping porch. It showed the situation of the screen through which the bullet worked a hole six and one-half feet high. The bullet followed a downward course through the temple of Reynolds.

AGENT FOR ESTATE

Warnken, the witness before the jury today, is vice president of Reynolda, Inc., and the local representative of the $60,000,000 estate of the late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco magnate. He was one of the first persons to arrive at the scene of the shooting.

Warnken testified at the inquest that he talked with Ab Walker, close friend of young Reynolds, after the latter died. Warnken said that Walker told him:

"The gun is upstairs."

When Walker was questioned by Solicitor Carlisle Higgins as to how he knew this and what he meant, the witness explained it was merely an assumption.

WIDOW FREED

Walker was held in custody as a material witness during the inquest as was Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, the widow.

After the coroner's jury brought in a verdict that Smith Reynolds had met death at the hands of a person or persons unknown, both Mrs. Reynolds and Walker were automatically freed.

Mrs. Reynolds immediately left for the home of her parents in Cincinnati. Her exact whereabouts is unknown at present although she has been reported to be in New York City.

LAMONT TAKES STEEL POST

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Charles M. Schwab announced today that Robert P. Lamont, who resigned as Secretary of Commerce, will be elected president of the American Iron and Steel Institute by the directors August 18.

Schwab, as chairman, will continue as chief executive officer, it was stated.

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Roy D. Chapin, always primarily a salesman and always an optimist, intends to sell his optimism to America in his new position as Secretary of Commerce.

Mr. Chapin, on his return here from Washington, where he accepted the appointment to the cabinet yesterday, declared that there is no doubt that the "depression has run its course" and that "the job now is to unleash the buying power."

Washington Auto Salesman Ends Life

Jailed Society Woman Sues Mate as 'Nagger'

CHICAGO, Aug 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Laura B. Price, society woman who recently completed a six months' jail sentence for conspiring to defraud an insurance company, has sued for divorce, charging Edward C. Price, wealthy head of a woodenware firm, with cruelty.

Mrs. Price declared her husband, who professed his faith in her during her trial and after her conviction, made her life miserable since their marriage in December, 1920, by "contstant nagging, jealousy, ungovernable passion, and violent temper."

She also seeks to enjoin Price from procuring the divorce for which he had sued at Clearwater, Fla., and demands that he be required to support her in her accustomed style.

Mrs. Price was convicted of conspiracy as a principal in a plot to defraud an insurance company of $18,000 theft insurance by staging a false robbery.

LANCASTER TELLS OF DEVOTION TO MRS. KEITH-MILLER

CLARKE KILLED SELF, ACCUSED FLIER SAYS

Suicide Notes Forged In Panicky Moment, He Declares

(Editor's Note—Capt. William N. Lancaster, charged with the murder of Haden Clarke, broke the silence he has maintained since his indictment with his first detailed discussion of the slaying and the developments which preceded it. In a statement written exclusively for International News Service, the British flier and war hero frankly admits his love for Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, discusses their relations and her romance with Haden Clarke, and outlines his own defense.)

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

By CAPT. WILLIAM N. LANCASTER

Written Exclusively for International News Service.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 4.—I have been asked to outline for International News Service my feelings as my trial for the alleged murder of Haden Clarke begins. I have also been asked to outline what my testimony in my own defense will be.

My defense will be that I did not kill Haden Clarke—that he killed himself with a pistol I had purchased.

I loved Mrs. Keith-Miller; she loved me. Haden Clarke won her love from me. But I did not kill Haden-Clarke.

I have been in jail now for three months and naturally the confinement has irked me, especially since I have always led a very active life and have never been deprived of my exercise before.

SUSPENSE OVER

I am glad that the period of suspense awaiting my trial is over. I am particularly glad because I shall have an opportunity to tell from the witness stand my own story in my own language.

Upon advice of counsel I have been silent and have not discussed in the press the evidence which I expect to give. Like limitations have not been observed by some of those who would like to see me convicted.

The story I shall tell will be the whole truth and, therefore, it will include the deep devotion which I have had and now have for Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller whom I have known and loved for more than five years.

We met in London in 1927 and became partners in an enterprise which led to the first airplane flight from England to Australia. When we left England we were only friends. When we arrived in Australia some weeks later my love for her was such that our lives have run together ever since.

Since those days we have flown all over the world together. Mrs. Keith-Miller, who was not a pilot on the first flight, has since become a thoroughly qualified pilot and one of the leading women fliers of the world.

FINANCIAL STRAITS

Last winter we found our financial situation not so good, and we came to Miami hoping to find some way out of our financial difficulties. I may say here that when either of us had money we both had it.

Mrs. Keith-Miller and I arranged in February that Haden Clarke should do the writing for a book which Mrs. Keith-Miller should sign and which she hoped to have published. We had no money to pay Haden, but we offered to provide him with room and board in the house which we occupied in Miami in lieu of financial compensation, with the understanding that he should receive a percentage of the royalties of the book.

We were still desperate about money matters, so I took an opportunity which seemed to present itself to fly in Mexico for a new enterprise known as Latin-American Airways. I felt safe in leaving Mrs. Keith-Miller in care of Haden Clarke, whom I had come to admire and trust. So in March I flew away on this enterprise and came back to Miami on April 20.

While I was away Haden Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller had become engaged to be married. I had wired them as soon as I had learned of it from their own letters, and told them that I would be no dog in the manger and that I wanted to be best man at the wedding.

I flew from St. Louis to Miami. They met me at the airport. We went out to the house, which all three of us had occupied, and talked until after midnight and then went to bed, Mrs. Keith-Miller in her room and Clarke and I on the sleeping porch.

AWAKENED BY SHOT

I went to sleep to be awakened, I suppose, by the sound of a pistol shot which ended Haden Clarke's life. My defense is simply that I am not guilty, but that Haden Clarke committed suicide.

I realize that I was very foolish in undertaking to write, or forge, if you please, "suicide" notes, but I am told that many innocent men, finding themselves trapped by circumstances or placed in a dangerous situation, have been foolish before me, though innocent.

There may be brought against me circumstances of which I know nothing, but I am prepared to disprove or explain all those with which I am familiar. I shall not be able to answer rumors such as are current unless I happen to hear about them.

I know that I am innocent and I know that the truth in a trial such as mine must be, will be, brought out and, therefore, I have every confidence in my complete acquittal of the terrible charge for which I am indicted, on account of which indictment I am imprisoned.

Although innocent and although confident of my full vindication I shall never cease to blame myself for leaving the woman I love—who had learned to rely on my protection—in unsafe hands, in an unsound atmosphere.

Blonde Joan, Secret Bride of Movie Cameraman

JOAN BLONDELL SECRETLY WED

GOLD BEACH, Ore., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The secret marriage of Joan Blondell, moving picture actress, and George S. Barnes, Hollywood cameraman, has come to light with their announcement that they are here on a honeymoon.

Clad in overalls, they are enjoying an interval of fishing in the Rogue River and are living in a small cabin.

At Hollywood, Miss Blondell's studio, Warner Brothers-First National disclaimed any knowledge she had wed and others who might be expected to know about it said they didn't.

'ORPHAN' VETS AT LIGONIER

By DAVE ROSENTHAL

Staff Correspondent.

LIGONIER, Aug. 4.—Stranded in the mountains near here, 19 veterans, a woman and two children, are living in two tents and a chicken house today awaiting the truck Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, has promised to send for them.

For five days they have been trying to join the main body of the bonus forces, after having been dumped out on the mountain here by employes of the State Highway Department when the attempt to rush the bonus army through Pennsylvania failed.

The group, part of the Camden (N. J.) outfit, camped in the apple orchard of a friendly farmer. Two tents were loaned by sympathizing neighbors. A mattress was provided for the mother and children. They are Mrs. Florence Gimello, James, 4, and Joseph, 7. James is suffering from the effects of tear gas.

Tony Batiste, of Camden, is the commander. Henry Mellor, camp "chiseler" and mess sergeant, has managed to get food enough for his group despite handicaps.

GARBO MAY BUY KREUGER VILLA

This is the "big secret" of the silent Swedish screen siren, according to circles close to the Gustafson family.

Greta is expected to buy the expensive, mystery-veiled summer villa of the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish industrialist, who shot and killed himself in Paris, and is said to be planning to make the villa into her own talking-picture studio.

AGENCY DENIES COAL MONOPOLY

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—James D. Francis, of Huntington, W. Va., president of the Appalachian Coals, Inc., which the government seeks to dissolve for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, was recalled to the stand today to answer governmental contentions that the Carolinas would suffer from monopolization in that area.

He was recalled to explain whether North and South Carolina would suffer if Appalachian Coals were permitted to monopolize the industry in those states.

He pointed out that "producers in the Appalachian fields not members of this agency have a productive capacity, equal to production of the mines of defendants which will be available to North Carolina."

First Vets' Train Goes Through City

The first contingent of the bonus army, en route west, passed through Pittsburgh early today on a special train over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The train was made up of seven coaches and will carry the western veterans to Chicago. The train did not stop here.

Holds Bonus Vet Died From Illness

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—William Gunn, 40, a member of the Bonus Expeditionary Force driven by federal troops from Washington last week, died in the Marine Hospital here yesterday. He had told physicians he had been injured and gassed in the fighting at Washington.

Dr. Richard H. Creel, medical officer in charge of the Marine Hospital, expressed the opinion Gunn died from natural causes.

Bonus Vet Hurt In Erie Train Fall

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A man named Potter, of Keane, N. H., believed to be a member of the Johnstown bonus army, was injured seriously today when he fell from a train.

Bonus Vet 'Rebels' Camp at Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A group of bonus marchers, opposed to the administration of Walter Waters, today indicated they would remain in camp on the edge of the National Cemetery indefinitely. The group now totals 218, including five women and six children.

Los Angeles Man Sends $100 to Vets

A check for $100 has been turned over to Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, by the Sun-Telegraph. The check was a donation by Dr. Arthur H. Schwartz, 1120 Roosevelt Building, Los Angeles, to the bonus army.

nus Expeditionary Forces, declared he would lead a group into Huntington, W. Va., and attempt to organize a new B. E. F.

Spokesmen for the California group said they would stick together and find some place to colonize along the route.

HARRISBURG MOVE BALKED

A movement among members of the Pennsylvania vets to march on Harrisburg and picket the state capital was said to have been nipped by John Kennedy, the commander.

The Camden (N.J.) group was considering making an application for a plot of ground offered by an eastern magazine to the B. E. F. and several southern contingents were anxious to learn more of the land Commander Walter W. Waters has said was offered the B. E. F. in Florida.

Last night's departure of the west-bound contingent was rather touching as the goodbyes were said from buddy to buddy. These men and women have gone through many hardships together.

Some of them refer to this last campaign as "the lost cause." The die-hards declare the battle has just begun; that this is not defeat—just a display of common sense.

SPIRITS HIGH

It was not a defeated army that marched forth from camp last night. Its banners were flung to the breeze and a band played stirring march tunes.

At its head marched the newly appointed chief of staff, Edward Atwell, former commander of Camp Marks. It was Atwell's second big achievement. The first was in marching 3,000 men, women and children to safety when fire, tear gas and bayonets swept Camp Marks.

Beside Atwell strutted the Mayor. McCloskey beamed. He bowed majestically to his Johnstown constituents along the route from the camp to the railroad siding, two miles away.

In the contingent was one family in particularly dire straits. Benjamin Hamilton, his wife and two children, aged 2 and 6 months.

GASSED IN FRANCE

Hamilton, gassed in France, has been out of work for nearly two years. His disability compensation, cut to $5 from $160 a month, has not been much help. They treked to Washington from Louisville, Ky., but have nothing in Louisville, so they decided to take the first train out. They were promised food and comfort in the soft-cushioned passenger coaches provided for them.

Where are they going?

They don't know.

Mrs. Hamilton, holding her baby close, sat on a pile of baggage while the train was being made up. Mayor McCloskey's band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner."

Some one started to sing:

". . . the land of the free, —and the home of the brave."

Mrs. Hamilton was crying. Perhaps it was thoughts of a home she had once known.

Mayor McCloskey skipped about from group to group in high glee.

"What say, buddy—glad to be going home?"

The question was asked in jocular manner, but the reply was not so funny.

"Home? What home—I have none."

Hundreds, today, are asking the same question:

Mrs. McCormick?

MILITARY RITES FOR SLAIN VET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—A military funeral in Arlington National Cemetery will be accorded Eric Carlson, of Oakland, Cal., second veteran bonus marcher fatally shot by police in the battle of Pennsylvania avenue Thursday.

Albert Collins, of the United States Veterans' Bureau, said today:

"We shall try to have him placed alongside his buddy, William J. Hushka, of Chicago, who was shot by police in the same struggle."

Leaders of the tattered group which made history are working desperately to build a new force to carry on their cause.

The youthful commander, Walter W. Waters, and his aides pinned their hopes upon the plan to build state cantonments and then mobilize hundreds of thousands of veterans and "forgotten men" into a "Khaki Shirt" brigade.

The grand jury, which was ordered to investigate the disturbances and rout of veterans by regular Army soldiers, reconvened today.

Eight "bonus babies" were still being cared for in local hospitals, suffering from colds, stomach disorders and other diseases contracted in the squalid bonus camps.

CHIEFS OF VETS HERE OPPOSE CAMP PLAN

Advise Men to Return Home, Then Exert Power at Polls

Pittsburgh and Allegheny County spokesmen for veterans' organizations today advised the members of the bonus army to continue to evacuate their camp at Johnstown and other parts of the country.

These veteran leaders all agree that the members of the bonus army should retain public sympathy and do nothing that might ultimately injure their cause.

The veterans are urged to evacuate their encampments and return to their home towns to work for action on legislation already presented for immediate payment of the bonus, by John Deller, county commander of the American Legion. Deller said:

"I think they should go home and get action on legislation already proposed which favors immediate payment of the bonus. They should stress that, and by all means they must be orderly."

URGES WORK AT POLLS

County Controller Robert G. Woodside, past national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, advised:

"The only way for these men to express their wishes now is to return to their homes, adjust themselves to conditions and work toward their objective at the polls."

"I believe the bonus marchers should continue to leave their camps at Johnstown and other places and return to their homes. That is the only way."

UPTREND SEEN

Speaking as a legionnaire and head of the United States Employment Bureau in the new County Office Building, Salvatore Cancelliere, declared:

"The best thing for the men to do is to go home and adjust themselves to conditions which, I feel certain, are on the up and up."

Charles G. Lane, Jr., past county commander of the American Legion, pointed out there was nothing left for the bonus marchers to do but to go home and campaign for their principles, adding:

"Since they have left Washington, I believe the marchers should return to their homes. They can use the polls to express their wishes, and I think they have as much right to organize as any other organization."

SEE HITLER BOLT FROM REGIME

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The prospect of a serious break between Chancellor von Papen's government and Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, over the recent riots in Germany, was intimated in the Rightist press today.

This was coupled with evidence that Hitler was spreading his organization efforts into other European countries and planning a powerful Nordic European alliance.

The ultra-Rightist Boersen-Zeitung said the government is considering a smashing emergency decree to end the rioting, in practically all of which Hitler's Nazis and his storm troops had a part.

That the decree would meet a protest from Hitler's forces was indicated by William Kube, head of the powerful Nazi delegation in the Prussian Diet.

TROOPS' SHELLS INJURE TWO

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Projectiles from a 155-mm. gun fired by National Guardsmen in training at Fort Moultrie, here, tore through the pilot house of a tug towing a target two miles at sea yesterday and injured two persons.

Capt. Edward Magwood, of Charleston, civilian skipper of the tugboat, and John Frederick, of Wilmington, N. C., a National Guardsman, were injured, but not seriously, by the charge. They were taken to a post hospital.

Lieut. Albert E. Nolan, of Greensboro, and James Goff, of Wilmington, members of a National Guard detail placing the targets in position with the tug, were dismissed after receiving treatment for minor abrasions. Three projectiles, it was believed, struck the tug.

One Dead in Blast At Historic Mill

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—One man was dead today and another was suffering from burns as the result of an explosion and fire which trapped them during the night in the historic flour mill at Roedersville. Norman Spancake, 20, lost his life. Sydney Roeder was expected to recover.

The mill was more than 100 years old and several times in its history was said to have been burned by Indians.

ALCOHOL DEATH SUSPECT HELD

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A paint store proprietor who retailed denatured alcohol was arrested yesterday and charged with homicide in connection with the death Saturday of an unidentified man.

Police confiscated 200 gallons of denatured alcohol in his store. Twenty-four men died here of alcoholic poisoning during the past week and police expressed the opinion they had bought the liquor at the same place.

The man arrested, Abraham Finkelstein, 21, said he had sold alcohol in bottles labeled "poison." He bought it for 6 cents a pint, he told police, and retailed it for 15 cents.

Finkelstein was arrested after the Industrial Alcohol Company turned over to authorities a letter, purportedly from him, asking advice as to whether the writer could continue to sell the alcohol to "Bowery bums" if the bottles bore poison labels.

Rag Collector, Dead At 70, Leaves Million

This was revealed when a brother and sister filed a $2,000,000 bond pending disposition of the estate. Kearns, who died intestate at the age of 70, July 19, left stocks and bonds amounting to $1,000,000.

Pup in Drain Pipe Safe After Crew Digs 36 Hours

MORRIS, Ill., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The Scotch terrier pup that was chasing a groundhog on Philip Oakland's farm should have known better than to follow his intended prey into a drain pipe, but he didn't.

As a result a group of men worked as they never worked before digging a trench 456 yards long and three feet deep before they finally located the pup.

The dog, after 36 hours' imprisonment, apparently was none the worse for the experience.

NEW LIGHT RATE OFFER SECRET

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt has refused to make public the exact nature of the new light rate submitted by the Duquesne Light Company for the approval of City Council.

He declared that as the rate was still under negotiation he had no right to reveal the terms of the offer, pending definite agreement.

John S. Herron, president of Council, declared the company's proposal was considerably better than any previously made. He said the proposed cut was more equitably distributed, including small as well as large consumers, but declared its term would not be announced until all members of Council have a chance to study them.

WABASH TUBE BUY OPPOSED

Citing numerous flaws in proposals for the purchase of the Wabash bridge and tunnel, Frederick Bigger, of the Municipal Planning Association, in a letter to the County Commissioners today advised against the proposition.

Proposed as a relief for South Hills traffic, Bigger told the Commissioners this relief will be effected soon by the completion of the by-pass traffic system at the Liberty Tubes.

Chief objections cited by Bigger were that the Wabash tunnels would increase traffic congestion downtown and retard property and business development and that the project would call for unnecessary and costly work.

He also contended that the burden of the cost was unequal. He declared that the property owners to be benefited by the proposed improvement would pay only 13.5 per cent of the cost while non-benefited property owners would pay 86.5 per cent.

False Alarm Causes Hill Burglar Scare

Police in the downtown and Hill districts today were swamped with calls from persons in uptown Fifth avenue as a result of a burglar alarm being set off accidentally in front of the Jacobson Knit Goods Company, 1018 Fifth avenue. The alarm rang for several hours. Police received many calls from persons who believed a robbery was being perpetrated.

SEABURY FLAYS WALKER REPLY TO CHARGES

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—An attack on Mayor James J. Walker's credibility lay on Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's desk today as the case of New York's "Jimmy" pushed to the forefront of the Governor's problems.

The documentary strife between Walker and Samuel Seabury, counsel to a legislative committee of investigation, reached a new climax when Seabury filed late yesterday 20,000 words calling Walker evasive and "unworthy of belief." It was a reply to Walker's defense against accusations of unfitness, on which the Mayor's removal is sought.

Soon Gov. Roosevelt is expected to make a decision public. He may give Walker a hearing. It also was considered possible he might remove or exonerate him on the basis of documents on file

SHARP ATTACK

Seabury, whose tone has hitherto been coldly legal, uncorked sharp language. Alluding to the Mayor's contention that 10 of 15 removal counts are outlawed because they refer to a previous administration, Seabury said it was "a sorry sight indeed" to see a public officer contending he must be allowed to continue in office "because he was fortunate enough not to be caught in time."

Seabury contended the record "clearly proves" the Mayor guilty of acts charged. They included accusations that he accepted sums from brokerage houses and individuals; that he carried on hidden financial transactions through the now missing Russel T. Sherwood; that he permitted the designation, in city compensation cases, of doctors who split fees with his brother, Dr. William H. Walker, and that he failed to produce his financial records or testify frankly.

'UNWORTHY OF BELIEF'

After summing up, Seabury said:

"On this record of equivocation, evasion and contradiction, the Mayor has demonstrated himself to be unworthy of belief where his official conduct is called into question."

In discussing the Mayor's denial that the missing Sherwood was his financial agent, Seabury harked back to the removal of Sheriff Thomas Farley, of Manhattan, who was ousted by the Governor after he explained he got large sums from a "wonderful tin box" in his home. Seabury said:

"It will be readily observed that whenever expenditures were shown to have been made by Sherwood for the Mayor's benefit, the Mayor's explanation was always the same—cash from the safe.

"This explanation differs from those made by lesser members of the political hierarchy only, as the Mayor was at pains to emphasize, in that it involves:

LEHMAN RUNS FOR GOVERNOR

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, saying he has been assured of the support of a "vast majority," today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Lehman, a member of the private banking concern of Lehman Brothers of New York City, came into public office when Roosevelt was inaugurated Governor on January 1, 1929. He is Roosevelt's choice for the Democratic nomination.

Mayor John Boyd Thacher, of Albany, also is a candidate.

Asked if he had conferred with former Gov. Smith, Lehman replied:

"I feel quite confident that he feels highly of me regarding my service to the people of the state. Of course, I cannot speak for Mr. Smith."

Woman Seeks Trace Of Brother Here

City officials have been asked to aid in locating Prospero Sala, a mason by trade. The appeal was made by his sister, Mrs. Josephine Giarelli, of 32 Hope street, Bridgeport, Conn., who has not heard from him for years.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

COUNTY INQUIRY RESTS TO HUNT WITNESSES

Subpenas were in the hands of county detectives today for four witnesses whose testimony is so badly wanted by the county grand jury that it recessed late yesterday until August 29 in the hope the men can be found.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, remarking on the sudden adjournment, after it had been expected the jury would return indictments today, said:

"The grand jury's work has been highly satisfactory, and the adjournment does not mean it has not been successful. The jury is determined to get all the evidence possible on the various matters investigated, and for that reason decided to recess, in the hope of getting this evidence."

WALTERS MOST SOUGHT

Roy Walters, private secretary to the late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, is the most sought witness. His evidence is wanted concerning the Watson Bowser $200,000 airport hauling contract. With Armstrong's lips sealed by death, only Walters can testify to his part in the negotiation of this contract. Former Commissioner E. V. Babcock and Commissioner C. C. McGovern have testified to their knowledge of the matter.

Walters is thought to have gone to Canada on a vacation trip, but detectives have been unable to learn his address. He is not expected to try to evade the subpena. He was summoned before the jury last week in the county gasoline inquiry and reported promptly to testify.

CLOONAN ALSO ABSENT

Gilbert C. Cloonan, chief clerk of the elections bureau under the Armstrong regime, is another witness desired. He was said to have gone to Florida after being ousted by the new administration.

Subpena servers sought two other witnesses, whose names were not revealed, all day yesterday, but found neither.

The grand jury for two weeks investigated the purchase of tax receipts, then took up the Bowser inquiry, which had developed from the county audit.

Later the jury investigated abuses in the use of county gasoline, also scanned county printing contracts and then went back into the Bowser inquiry, bringing in the Duquesne Slag Company officials for whom Bowser hauled the slag.

WINS DIVORCE FROM SWIMMER

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Judge Joseph B. David promised a divorce decree yesterday to Mrs. Dorothy Rumble Weissmuller, 23, who eloped to Crown Point, Ind., in 1926 with Peter, the younger brother of the famous swimmer, Johnny Weissmuller.

She charged desertion, and told the court Peter is now in Hollywood endeavoring to become a movie star through his swimming ability. Mrs. Weissmuller asked $15 a week for the support of their son, but waived allmony. The judge objected, saying:

"Your husband may become as famous as his brother and make considerable money. Therefore the court will reserve action on the waiving of alimony."

The judge objected on grounds that she might become a public charge.

ATTACKS WIFE, SLAIN BY SON

PAINESVILLE, O., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Murderously attacking his wife with a sledge hammer, a father was shot and killed by his 17-year-old son in Willowick, early today.

The son, Raymond Heths, surrendered. The body of the father, C. P. Heths, was found in the yard of their home. The mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Heths, was taken to a Painesville hospital in a critical condition.

Deputies said Raymond told them a long-standing quarrel between his parents was climaxed when Heths seized the hammer and chased his wife until he cornered her in the kitchen. The youth got a gun and ran to her rescue.

If You Want Happiness, Be Jealous, Star Says

MARLENE DIETRICH . . . 'JEALOUSY DOESN'T WRECK HOMES!'

Marlene's Perfect Woman Would Be Zestful Lover

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—"If you want to be happy, be jealous."

This is the advice given to married men and women by Marlene Dietrich, exotic German film star, in an article published here. She said:

"The theory that jealousy is the wrecker of marriages is entirely wrong. Looking around among my acquaintances for proof I find that the happiest women are those whose love is 'peppered' with jealousy.

"The easy-going wife who doesn't care what her husband is doing, who leaves his hands free, soon loses contact with him and mutual alienation is the consequence."

Miss Dietrich warned, however, that there are limits to a woman's jealousy.

"She must not go so far as to become offended when he plays cards with friends or goes to his club. She should show him in a tactful manner that she likes his company and has a right to share it, with the order existing in our society there can be no rights without duties."

But a grain of jealousy, Miss Dietrich holds, is more essential to a woman's make-up than the costliest cosmetics.

"If I had the power to create a perfect woman, I would surely mix among her virtues a grain of jealousy. Certainly a little dose of jealousy strongly increases a woman's attractions."

Man Slain, 1 Injured In Toledo Rum War

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—One man was found shot to death and another wounded today in what police termed the outbreak of a new bootleg gang war.

Tete Dagastino, 40, of Monroe, was found dead in his automobile, a bullet hole through his head. Dominick Mighiore, 35, also of Monroe, was found wounded on the porch of a home in an exclusive district.

'WHAT-A-MAN' TO SUE WIFE

DENVER, Col., Aug. 4.—(Universal.)—Guy Edward ("What-a-Man") Hudson said here today he plans to file a half million dollar slander suit against Mrs. Minnie ("Ma") Kennedy Hudson, his wife.

He said his suit will be based on charges flung at him for several months by Mrs. Hudson, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton. Hudson said the slander suit complaint will be filed at Las Vegas, Nev.

Hudson came to town in search of a job.

He said his experience has been the "ultimate in misery" and that he needs a job to fight the charges brought by Mrs. Hudson in her divorce suit.

Describing himself as a "quiet person anxious to mind my own business," Hudson said he could no longer endure the position of a "kept man."

Desmond's Daughter, 12, Plays Film Role

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A second generation of the Desmond family—little Mary Jo Desmond, 12, daughter of William Desmond, pioneer film star—got into the movies yesterday.

Prospector Finds $1,300 Chunk of Gold

SONORA, Cal., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A solid chunk of gold valued at $1,300 was part of a rich find reported here today by Robert Newmeyer. The prospector said he found the gold in an abandoned mine shaft on the slopes of Jackass Hill, one-time home of Mark Twain.

Newmeyer has prospected in the vicinity nearly four years, but seldom has found gold in appreciable quantities.

Fifth Man Arrested In Holdup, Shooting

Oakland Harper, 20, of 2931 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, was arrested at McKeesport today in connection with the attempted holdup last Thursday of William Weldon, McKeesport realtor, on Coulter road, in which Roy Mellinger, of 1809 Vermont avenue, McKeesport, was shot. Ben Wilson, 20, of Versailles Township, was also arrested, charged with receiving stolen goods. Three others are under arrest and another is sought.

Police Restore Lost Girl, 7, to Father

Shirley Koller, 7, of North Lincoln avenue, became separated from her chum on their way home from a movie and spent several hours in the North Side Police Station last night before her father, Brenton Koller, came to take her home.

Shirley approached Patrolman Frank Lindner at Sandusky street and East North avenue and told him she was lost. The Koller family moved here a week ago from Harrisburg, police said.

Philippines Reject Repeal of Gag Law

MANILA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A legislative committee today turned down a bill which would have eliminated from the insular penal code the so-called press gag law.

Although admittedly violated daily, the present law prohibits publishing reports reflecting on the "private life or reputation" of any individual, even though the basis of the reports is a matter of court record.

WIFE FORGIVES DRY'S KILLERS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The widow of John G. Finiello, prohibition investigator slain two years ago at Elizabeth, N. J., holds no "feeling of revenge" against two men held in St. Paul, Minn., who are held charged with the slaying. Mrs. Margaret Finiello today said:

"It is not for me to say what shall be done with these men. People who do things as dreadful as that cannot be in their right senses."

Finiello was killed in a raid on a brewery in Elizabeth. Al Silverberg and John Newman, the men held in St. Paul, have been identified as the slayers by Finiello's fellow investigators, authorities said. They are also held for the October grand jury there in connection with the shooting of two alleged racketeers.

Finiello, a former Pittsburgher, was widely known in the Hill district, where he resided. He was a World War veteran.

LINA AND HAYES BELIEVED WED

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Broadway rumors that Lina Basquette and Teddy Hayes, have been married for nearly a year, received partial confirmation today from the records of the Newark marriage license bureau.

On October 14, last, a man and a woman appeared at the bureau and obtained a marriage license. The woman described herself as Lena Copeland Baskett, 23, of Manhattan. The man signed the name of Theodore T. Hayes, 43, Manhattan. Four days later the couple were married by Police Judge Harold Simandi.

Lina attempted suicide in Los Angeles several days ago, according to the authorities. A note addressed to "Jack," read:

"I love you, only you. I couldn't help it. I couldn't go on without you."

MISSOURI PICKS 2 ANTI-DRYS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Missouri will elect an anti-dry United States Senator next November.

Both Bennett C. Clark, who won the Democratic nomination, and Henry W. Kiel, selected by the Republicans in Tuesday's primary, are outspoken opponents of prohibition.

Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, maintained a plurality of 40,000 or more over his nearest opponent, Charles M. Howell.

Kiel, former Mayor of St. Louis who advocates immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit the making of beer, won the Republican nomination by a landslide.

TITIAN BEAUTY SELECTED

Miss Kitty Nugent, 22, of 1344 Point Vue street, was named winner of the red-haired beauty contest in Motor Square Garden last night. Twenty-two girls were entered.

Miss Nugent will compete for the title of Miss Pittsburgh Monday night with winners of the brunet, blonde and bathing beauty contests. Tonight the most beautiful blonde will be chosen.

There are nine couples and one solo dancer in the marathon dance under way at the garden. John Cole, of Suisman street, North Side, collapsed last night after dancing 1,392½ consecutive hours. His partner, Miss Rae McGregor, is the solo dancer.

AINEY VACANCY RAISES ISSUE

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Doubt that Gov. Pinchot can legally make a temporary chairman of the Public Service Commission was expressed in commission circles today.

Any appointment made by the Governor to fill the vacancy left by W. D. B. Ainey's regisnation would, under the public service law, as interpreted by a member of the commission, have to be permanent. Until such an appointment is made, the commissioner said, S. Ray Shelby will be automatically acting chairman.

Shelby, however, does not meet with the Governor's approval. As a consequence, it is probable that the chief executive will make his permanent nomination within a week or so.

Sea Divers Hunting $4,000,000 Treasure

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Somewhere off Winter Quarter Shoals, divers are investigating a sunken vessel which they hope may prove to be the steamer Merida, which went down more than 20 years ago with a $4,000,000 treasure in her holds.

The salvage steamer Salvor, chief of three treasure craft, in port here for provisions, will steam again to sea Saturday.

Kaye Don to Sail To Race Gar Wood

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Kaye Don, world's speedboat record holder, plans to sail for the United States on the steamer Majestic August 10 to race his boat, Miss England III, against Gar Wood's Miss America for the British international trophy.

The Miss England III will be shipped from Liverpool to Canada tomorrow aboard the steamer Duchess of Richmond.

Suitor Slays Girl, Then Ends Own Life

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Tragedy climaxed a lovers' quarrel here today when Edward Kramer, 38, shot Ruth Hilgenberg, 21, and then turned the gun on himself.

Both died almost immediately. The shooting occurred in the office of a physician by whom Miss Hilgenberg was employed.

Dry's Son Jailed As Drunken Driver

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Seven months in the House of Correction was the sentence imposed today on Wycliffe Watson, 21-year-old son of the Rev. Dr. Robert Watson, secretary of the Lord's Day League and prominent prohibition leader, for drunken driving and other charges.

U. S. REFUSES RELIEF SUM TO STATE

Clyde L. King, Secretary of Revenue for Pennsylvania, said:

"From existing tax channels we feel confident that Pennsylvania has done all that can possibly be expected other than certain tax proposals now before the Legislature."

POMERENE STATEMENT

A statement by Pomerene said:

"It is our belief that on proper showing we should extend some relief to the state of Pennsylvania, but it must be borne in mind that we have funds intrusted to our board which are to be expended not in lieu of state or local relief, but to be supplemental thereto if, when, and as necessary.

"After a full hearing we feel persuaded that the Legislature of Pennsylvania and its several political subdivisions have not done their full duty with respect to furnishing funds for relief purposes.

"We shall defer action with regard to relief for Pennsylvania until we know what the Legislature will do for the relief of its own people."

Welfare Fund Here Faces Exhaustion in 2 Weeks

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation today refused federal aid for Pennsylvania's unemployment relief, the Welfare Fund and Allegheny County Emergency Association faced failure of funds within two weeks.

Refusal of federal adi, asked by Gov. Pinchot, was based on the failure of the state Legislature to provide its limit of state assistance.

SITUATION CRITICAL

The situation appears to be most dangerous in the county, outside of the city limits. While indications are that the city's $800,000 in bonds of the $5,000,000 voted by the people last spring for relief, would be sold soon, no such prediction could be made for the county.

The County Commissioners have not yet advertised their bonds for sale, as is legally required. It was hoped the bonds would tide over relief work in the county until state or federal aid is procured. Following advertising, which takes three weeks, bids must be received and opened before sale to the highest bidder.

CITY BOND BIDS ASKED

Bonds for the same purpose in the city have been advertised and bids will be opened on August 16. City funds cannot be used in the county.

One chance seemed to remain for relief to be continued in the county until the bonds are sold. It was that leaders of welfare organizations—principally the Allegheny County Emergency Association and the Welfare Fund—would continue operations on credit. With certainty of future funds, such a plan would be practicable, workers said today.

The other possibility is that the County Commissioners might appropriate enough of their $260,000 relief fund, which was never spent owing to passage of the Talbot bill in the spring, to finance work until the bonds can be sold.

Cost of relief work in city and county is above $125,000 per week, it was learned. On the week ending July 23, the sum of $137,187.33 was spent in aiding 30,801 families—an increase of 958 cases during the week.

THE EDITOR of Good Housekeeping Magazine recently invited friends to test freezing-preservation methods of the General Foods Company. Peas and fresh berries frozen for more than a year are served as fresh as though just picked, perfect in flavor, better, fresher, than when picked and kept in shops for one or two days.

If that method could be applied to orange and other fruit juices, without loss of flavor or vitamin value, and not too expensive, the available citrus lands of the United States, strictly limited in area, must soon fail to supply the demand.

FAIRLY CHEERFUL Wall street day yesterday. Of 625 stocks bought and sold, 450 went up, only 70 went down. Wheat gained two cents a bushel, perhaps in response to Republican prayers.

OHIO GIRL ENDS LIFE BY LEAP

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Miss Ethel Kauf, 20, a pretty red-haired girl from Cleveland, ended her life yesterday when she jumped from a room on the fourth floor of the Murray Hill Hotel.

Her body was found in the rear courtyard. In a note she had directed that her purse, containing a watch, but not money, be turned over to a sister "at the Y. W. C. A." She wrote:

"I am sorry I am going to cause a disturbance and scandal. I hope and pray this four-story drop kills me but if it doesn't please do not notify my sister. You had better let the city bury me, as I don't believe my family has any money left. Thank you."

Story of Tears Wins Betty Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Betty Boyd, film actress, was granted a divorce yesterday from Henry Over, Jr., whom she charged with mental cruelty. She asserted he nagged her and falsely accused her of associating with other men. In answer to her attorney's question as to how Over's conduct affected her, Miss Boyd said:

"I cried most of the time."

FAMED RUNNER RACES POVERTY

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A decade ago Paul L. Doucette raced to a small fortune and international fame in the Canadian transcontinental marathon. Today his race was with poverty.

In 1922, Doucette, a Frenchman, headed all others from Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, to Vancouver, British Columbia, to win $15,000 and the marathon in 97 days 7 hours.

Doucette started out in C. C. Pyle's "bunion derby" from Los Angeles to New York, in 1929, but was forced out.

APPROVE CHACO PEACE MOVES

Associated Press.

Bolivia and Paraguay gave their approval today to international moves for peaceful settlement of the Chaco controversy, but they prepared for war.

Dispatches fom Perico, Argentina, a town on the Bolivian border, quoted a Bolivian commander as saying 11,000 troops would be in the Chaco in the next few days. Bolivia now has 6,000 men there, he said.

In La Paz it was said the government would raise serious objections to several clauses of the note sent by the United States and 18 South and Central American nations yesterday, in which a warning was given that any territorial gains made by armed force would not be recognized.

Paraguay informed the League of Nations it was willing to arbitrate and Bolivia, in its note to the League, said it "did not decline" offers of a peacful settlement.

NET STAR'S KIN SLAIN BY POLICE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—With a policeman's bullet in his head, Ralph Richards, half-brother of Vincent Richards, tennis star, and an escaped convict, died today in a hospital.

He was shot by a patrolman when he reached for his own gun after being ordered with two companions in an automobile to submit to questioning in connection with a robbery.

Richards was considered a dangerous, clever criminal who led the daring prison break from Eastview Penitentiary in Westchester County last month.

Anthony Scalise and George Gregory, Richards' companions, will be arraigned today charged with robbing Richard Gray and Ralph Clark in their Brooklyn apartment of $12.30.

King to Join Fleet, View Italy's Colony

ROME, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—King Victor Emanuel today embarked on the cruiser Savoia to participate in naval maneuvers off Taranto.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies he planned to visit the Italian colony of Eritrea, Africa, for the first time.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

It's Necessary for Everyone To Choose Own Career

That's the proposition Margaret's up against.

She wants to be a nurse. She has wanted to be one ever since she was big enough to think about being one. But the folks won't hear of it, and—

But listen in for yourself, and then tell us what you think.

Dear Sally:

Will you please help me? I have a problem that is driving me to distraction. I don't know just what I should do.

FAMILY OBJECTION

You see, it is my parents. They are insisting on dictating what kind of work I shall do.

I am 19 years old, and ever since I can remember I have wanted to be a nurse. I know that nursing is hard work, but I am strong, and it is what I long to do.

But they object to the idea. They keep telling me that it is a job of sacrifice. And they have made me take up a business course, which I feel sure I shall never use because it all bores me to death, and I still want to be a nurse!

What can I do?

I feel as if it will just spoil my life. I simply can't get interested in pot-hooks and figures and that kind of thing. It just doesn't appeal to me, and nursing does. Yet, if I go against their wishes I know there will be a big row, and they will think and say that I am being "ungrateful," and they will be hurt because I don't follow their wishes.

GIRL PERPLEXED

Will you please give some of your good advice? I just don't know which way to turn. I feel as if I were in a terrible blind alley. Either way, it will be terrible. If I go on as they want me to, I will never be satisfied. While if I don't—if I insist on doing what I want to—oh, you know how it is!

What shall I do? I am so unhappy! Have they a right to pick out my life work for me? And must I do as they say?

MARGARET.

What will you do?

Live your own life, child. Learn to make your own decisions, and then stick to them; for your life is your own. No one else has any right to tell you how you shall live it so long as you are a decent, honest citizen, and it will be a mightily muddled, empty life unless you get spunk enough to manage it for yourself.

A HARD JOB

If you want to be a nurse, be one. You don't have to have Dad and Mom's consent. Go to some good hospital and put in your application. It will be hard work, but if you really want to do it, and have the grit to stick, go ahead. Show what kind of stuff you're made of.

And don't feel that you're letting Dad and Mom down by not minding them. They are letting you down by trying to dictate to you. They will probably raise Cain for a while, but let them raise it. Don't quarrel with them, but don't let them mess your life up, either. And I'll gamble that if you're a good nurse, they'll end up by being proud of you.

That's my answer to Margaret.

But maybe yours is different. If it is, let's have it!

Women Often Make or Mar Other Women's Happiness, Fay King Observes

MY SISTER-IN-LAW HAS NO STYLE!
MY DEAR, I REALLY THINK YOU OUGHT TO KNOW, I SAW HIM WITH HER AT—
IT WILL BE THE JOY OF MY LIFE TO SEE YOU TWO HAPPY TOGETHER!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Most of the happiness and unhappiness in the world can be traced directly to the treatment of women toward women.

How many countless happy homes have had their beginning under the influence and inspiration of those loyal women who delight in seeing their women friends married and happy as they themselves are.

How many unhappy homes are being made by the selfish women who have no consideration for the women whose homes and happiness they destroy and these honey-worded women who are "so frank" in matters where silence is the only hope for harmony.

Outspoken criticism or stifled praise by women-in-laws has helped wreck many a marriage which might have been a happy one with a little help and approval from them.

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The Men Depart on Dangerous Mission

Outwardly calm, but with hands interlaced in a grasp that was to leave them aching, Lillian and I stood together listening to the receding sounds of her husband's powerful car. They were not loud, for Harry Underwood has a way with motors, and he had employed all his knowledge to keep his as silent as possible, lest any hint of their expedition should reach the ears of a possible listener outside the patrolled section surrounding the farmhouse.

"I don't think that could be heard very far away," I said when not even our imagination could bring another purr of the motor to our ears.

"Wait. We shall soon know," she said, and silently we stood together until a few minutes later Jim's figure materialized from the darkness.

"Could you hear them?" we asked with one voice.

"Nary a sound," Jim answered. "I waited, as Mr. Underwood told me, with my watch in my hand, till five minutes after the light in the barn went out. Then I came in. Axton says he put it out just at the second Mr. Underwood told him, so they must have passed near enough for me to hear 'em if anybody could."

"Yes, they started on the minute scheduled," I answered. "Thank you, Jim. What are your orders now?"

"To get back to my post with Axton just as soon as I reported to you."

OBEYS ORDERS

"Then we mustn't keep you," Lillian said, pulling me back with her toward the door. I went with her unwillingly, for it seemed to me that I must stay outside listening and watching until Dicky should return.

I had the colossal selfishness and egotism in that moment that comes, I think, to most mortals when in the presence of imminent danger to their nearest and dearest. I knew that despite her apparent composure, Lillian was also on the rack, only her anxiety, of course, was for Harry. But during the next half hour while we waited as women have been compelled to do throughout the ages, Harry Underwood's safety and that of Hugh Grantland were as nothing to me. I had room but for one thought, one unspoken petition. If my husband could only come back safely to me!

I think even Dicky's jealous heart would have been satisfied could he have read mine, and seen how completely my concern for Hugh Grantland's safety had been buried under the avalanche of anxiety for his own that had overwhelmed me. More than once, during these months of uncertainty as to Hugh's fate, my very real and affectionate concern for this most loyal friend, to whom I was indebted for the safety of my boy, had irritated my husband to the point of temper outbursts most difficult for me to endure. But so inconsistent is a woman in terror for a loved one that I found myself now unjustly raging against Hugh for sending the summons that had put Dicky in danger.

Lillian, stronger of nerves than I, more inured to danger because of her long work in the diplomatic secret service, spoke briskly as soon as we were inside the kitchen door, with Jim on his way to the barn.

"Well, old girl, 'men must work,' though the rest of the quotation has gone out of style. But if we sit around here with nothing to do for the next half-hour, I for one will be watering the garden with my tears. Let's go down and scrub the cellar stairs, if there's no other job handy."

KATIE REFUSES HELP

With a mighty effort, because I was ashamed to do anything else, I caught her cue and acted upon it.

"There is one," I said, "Katie, here, must be almost exhausted. Suppose we finish getting that supper ready for the visitors."

"Right you are! Come, Katie, off to bed with you! You must be dead on your feet!"

My little maid turned a tired, lined face but undaunted, smiling eyes at us, from her chair at the kitchen table where she was counting the silver.

"My feet dead," she said with her invariable giggle, "but me, I'm alive und keecking, t'ank you. I no have to go to bed. I feex dis supper. I know shoost how. You ladies only in my way."

She grinned impishly at us, but there was an appeal in her eyes that I suddenly understood. To her there could be nothing worse than to be sent to bed before the arrival of the visitors. Fatigue, evenly bodily pain—were of no weight whatever when put into the scales against the prospect of serving supper to the travelers and being a part of the melodramatic arrival of our exciting guests.

"All right, Katie," I said, with a little signal to Lillian, "we'll go away and leave you to do your work in peace. But call us when you hear the car coming back."

"I'll do dot leetle ting," she said, beaming as we went out of the kitchen.

"You sure pulled a dud that time," Lillian said with the wry ghost of a smile. "Taking Katie away from this third act would be worse than snatching a baby's candy in these enlightened days. So that occupation's gone. Come on into the living room and see what the youngsters are pulling off. Noel and Ronald may be at each other's throats by this time."

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Psychics and Slams in Toronto

The epidemic of psychic bidding in contract is apparently dying out in New York. Players who used to embellish every hand with at least one or two psychics before the bidding was ended, now are able to restrain themselves and bid them with great infrequency, finding that their effectiveness is thereby increased. In other places where contract is played, however, psychic bidding is extremely popular.

A most unusual example of an unusual psychic opening, which eventually culminated in a Grand Slam contract in another suit, occurred recently in a game at the Cavendish Club in Toronto, the participants being four leading players of that city. Mr. Hamlin B. Hatch, who held the South hand and opened the bidding by naming a suit of which he was void, sent me the hand below:

North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North: ♠ Q 10 9 5 4 ♡ Q ◇ A J 10 9 8 3 ♣ 7
West: ♠ 8 ♡ 9 8 7 6 5 ◇ — ♣ A K Q J 8 3 2
East: ♠ — ♡ A K J 10 4 3 2 ◇ K ♣ 10 9 6 5 4
South: ♠ A K J 7 6 3 2 ♡ — ◇ Q 7 6 5 4 2 ♣ —

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		Pass	Pass
1♡(1)	Pass(2)	2◇	3♡(3)
6◇(4)	7♣(5)	Double(6)	Pass
7◇(7)	7♡	Pass	Pass
7♠(8)	Pass	Pass	Double(9)
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) Mr. Hatch explains his bid as based on his desire to possibly prevent an adverse heart bid and eventually play the hand at four spades.

(2) West, of course, does not know that the heart bid is not genuine. He decides to adopt a wait-and-see policy.

(3) East exposes the psychic.

(4) Perhaps overbold, although with South's freakish distribution six appears like a reasonable possibility.

(5) West decides that the penalty, played at seven hearts or clubs, cannot be great.

(6) A bad double.

(7) An excellent bid.

(8) Very daring, although by inference South can place at least spade length in the North hand, in view of his opponents' vulnerable bidding.

(9) An extremely questionable Double.

As Mr. Hatch pointed out, the hand was most extraordinary in that North and South could make all 13 tricks at either diamonds or spades, while equally, East and West had a grand slam available at either clubs or hearts. The unusual opening bid probably had little to do with the eventual contract, although it possibly might have promoted the double, which cost a few hundred extra points.

Such hands as the above, absolute freaks in their distribution, are calculated to develop unusual bidding, and probably at no two tables, if such a hand were dealt at duplicate, would the bidding follow identical lines. Bid more conventionally, it is, however, extremely probable that a majority of players with the North and South hands would reach the spade grand slam.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Is it all right for a player to look back two or three tricks?

Answer—This point is covered by Law 35 (e) and Provision 9 of "Ethics and Etiquette," which read as follows:

"A quitted trick may be examined upon demand of any player whose side has not led or played to the following trick."

"Except when permitted by law, a player should not look at a trick that has been turned and quitted."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cod Liver Oil an Aid in Halting Rickets

In spite of advances made in the study of nutritional disorders, rickets continues to be one of the tragedies of childhood. The disease can be eliminated only when every parent takes advantage of what has been learned by medical science.

Dr. Copeland

Rickets, one of the nutritional diseases of children, is caused by absence of sunlight and lack of phosphorus and lime in the diet. When the diet is deficient in vitamin D, there is improper growth and development of the muscles.

The disease can be prevented when the diet contains an abundant supply of vitamin D, or when the body is exposed to sunlight. When it is not possible to give the child sufficient sunlight, the diet must be regulated to supply the necessary protective substances.

Fortunately, cod liver oil contains an abundant supply of vitamin D. That is why all baby specialists advise cod liver oil to every growing child as early as the sixth week, and that it be continued through the second year.

Because the early symptons of rickets are overlooked, a child may have rickets for a long time without the parent realizing it. Though the disease is not fatal, it undermines the health and growth of the child. Every restless and irritable child that does not show normal progress in growth and development should be suspected of having rickets.

Infants with rickets constantly turn their heads from side to side. They sweat freely, have poor appetite and many digestive disturbances.

Unfortunately, when the disease is neglected certain changes occur in the bony structure of the body, due to lack of lime and phosphorus. The skull may become square in shape and show marked ridges. Bony swellings may be found on the ribs. The wrists are enlarged and soft. Lack of strength in the leg bones results in bow-leg or knock-knee. Occasionally abnormal curvature of the spine results from rickets.

The importance of preventing rickets and of discovering it in its early stages cannot be overemphasized. Please bear in mind the value and importance of sunlight and cod liver oil in promoting the welfare of children.

Household Hints

If your bedroom is located on the darker side of the house you will find yellow draperies and decorations will do wonders in brightening it up.

If you make your own sheets, make wide hems on both ends. You will find they will wear better than when there is a distinct top and bottom.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Steaming the face and arms is one way of getting rid of freckles; it fluffs off the dead, discolored cuticle. Anoint the skin surface with cream, cover with turkish towels that have been wrung out of hot water, hold close and tight with flattened palms. As soon as the compresses are removed and before the cream is washed away, skip over the epidermis with an ice cube. All-year freckles require a bleaching medium, but light freckles can be creamed and steamed away. Give the treatment every night for two weeks.

That good looks are dependent upon health and vitality is an old sing-song to the beauty seeker. It's a bromide, but true as truth. Health lights the beacons in the eyes, keeps the lips red, the skin clear, the step alert, the brain on the bound. It's no use to ply the old powder pad or to put on the war paint if optic lamps are dull and the complexion sallow. Get down to brass tacks and go in for health care. Get interested in hygiene. Grow strong muscles. Develop full, well-inflated lungs. No girl can look well if she feels ill.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Banquet Silver Pieces

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am invited to a banquet which is to be held in a short time and I would like to have these questions answered:

1—When someone drinks a toast to a person, what does the person say?

2—Is a cocktail eaten with a fork or spoon, and how is this fork or spoon distinguished from other spoons or forks on the table?

3—How may I distinguish a salad fork? Is it always the same type . . . but shorter than the other forks and broader?

H.

1.—The person to whom the toast is drunk puts his or her hand on the glass, raises it slightly, bows most graciously in acknowledgment of the compliment, and says, "thank you," or "thank you so much," or "Thank you. That is most kind."

2. An oyster or shrimp or crabmeat cocktail, and others of this type, are eaten with the oyster fork, the small fork with the slim handle and the three prongs close together. The placing of this fork is the exception to the rule that we place forks on the left of the plate. This fork is placed on the right of the plate, usually on the extreme right, since usually the course for which it is placed is the first course.

3. The salad fork usually has a shorter handle than the regular forks, and the tine part is heavier looking, broader, and more compact. The design of the fork is different with different manufacturers, but, usually the end tines are wider than the two center ones, and the division between the two center tines goes down farther than that between the other tines. Also the tines of this fork usually project up more than those of the regular fork.

Return

With strange, cool eyes you now return my glance ....
Can this be you who filled the world for me,
By miracles made magic of romance
That now is gone so irrevocably?
I had looked forward hopefully, the while
That long, gray length of your departure stretched,
To your returning arms. Where is the smile
Of promise in your eyes that fancy etched?

Wait not to whisper me thin nonsense now,
But go, before you bend to duty's kiss,
Grown cold. I pin no faith upon a vow
Revived. My compromise with love is this:
I'll keep that fine, high dream of you and dare

The Retort Terrible

The Barrymores, they tell you, have the most caustic tongues in show business. Not that they go out of their way to crush another, but they usually can think of a stiffler when they have to.

There was the off-stage scene between John Barrymore, frinstance, and a leading lady, whose acting got on his nerves. And as he passed her dressing room he so told her.

"That's the finish," she bellowed. "I'm through. I'll never act with you again!"

"My dear lady," snarled John, "you never have!"

Oop!

Irving Hoffman offers the one about the chap you prided himself on a brusqueness that he mistook for wit. The wise guy met Jo Davidson, the renowned sculptor of the great.

"So you're the fellow who makes mudheads, eh?"

"No," was the squelcher, "not all of them!"

Izzy Elinsonism

Despite all the talk about people losing interest in politics more campaign buttons will be worn this year than ever before. A guy has to use something to hold the rip in his pants!

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the Book of Similes: Charles Hanson Towne—"Futile as cheating at solitaire" . . . Pathfinder—"Suffered like a dachshund with the backache" . . . Jack Denny—"Certain as the red light when you're in a hurry" . . . Bugs Baer—"Arguing with the wife is like lathering a mirror and shaving your reflection" . . . Anon—"He's like an after dinner speaker. You know, a guy who has more to say just when you think he has finished!"

Surething Bet

They were gabbing about a certain star on the coast, who recently announced his intention to marry.

"Well," flipped one of the local hammer-throwers, "if that bird ever does marry, it'll only be a question of time when his scrapbook is named co-respondent!"

Short Story

In 1906, when the Aerial Garden (later the Ziegfeld Frolic) was opened by Klaw and Erlanger, they found it tough sledding enticing people to get into the elevator leading to the roof theater. At the time, Fay Templeton was featured there. After her opening performance she was the recipient of a mash note every day, which was accompanied by a gift or posies. Miss Templeton, however, snubbed the admirer and had the gifts returned. His name was Thomas Lanphier—and her indifference broke his heart.

When the Albany night boat docked up-state one morning, a stateroom revealed a photo of Miss Templeton, some last letters written to her, a hat with the initials "T. L." and some verse which told of an undying love for her. Mark Leuscher, the press agent, later told the papers why the chap committed suicide. It was page one stuff and that night and for months thereafter the original Ziegfeld Frolic played to capacity houses.

Miss Templeton, however, almost had to leave the show because of remorse and so they confessed that it was all a publicity trick and that there never was a Thomas Lanphier. The passionate verse, which the papers stated was the work of a genius—was written by one of the owners of the failing amusement play—Marc Klaw!

In Fewer Words

Jack Hynes toys with "argyrol" in a sentence like this: "Argyrol man" . . . Dorothy Parker handles "ennui" in this manner: "Ennui all?" E. Davis juggles that radio star's handle to read: "Ed Wynn be long now!" and Anon offers "psychic" like this: "Hey, Joe! Meet my pal and psychic!"

Indifference

Not all of us are that indifferent to the pangs of love, of course. Like the former star, whose career is dotted with famous love affairs. At his club the other sundown he again revealed his disdain for women, when someone asked him what was troubling a pal, who was in a corner brooding.

"Oh," was the reply, "his wife just ran off with another man—and the sap has taken it to heart."

Heheheh

The team of Olsen & Johnson, now on the airwaves, are the nearest things to "nut" comics the theatre has produced. Off a stage or away from a microphone the average person would think them lunatics.

As a matter of record when they played Terre Haute they were stopped at the stage door by a woman, who said:

"I beg your pardon, but each week I bring my sons to the zoo or the asylum, but this time they wanted to see you boys!"

And He Wasn't Kidding

Al Boasberg, who prepares the wit for several vaudeville stars and radio favorites, has been married several times, always coming out second best. And so when he was married for the steenth time recently, they say he took his bride to his apartment and said to her:

"Who was that standing alongside of me when we were married?"

"Why, nobody, dear," said the startled woman.

"Are you sure?" growled Boasberg as he held her tightly by a wrist.

"I'm positive," she chirped.

"Well, then," he cried, "remember that. Remember that I didn't marry your whole family."

No Wonder

"Because," to quote Buddy, "I can reach more people."

And none of them can reach him!

The Perfect Plan

IF EVER a man was money-mad, Arthur Green was that man. He liked nothing better than to sit around and dream of what he would do if he had a million dollars. That's not a bad occupation, but I know of very few cases where the man made the million by dreaming about it. Arthur, however, did very little else. The only time he stopped was when he took a day off to get married. As he found out later, that was no dream.

The girl was a sweet kid — until she became Arthur's wife. Within a few months he had her almost as bad as himself. Worse, perhaps, because Mary had more imagination than her husband.

So there you have Mary and Arthur Greene. The man blabbered incessantly of the million that would some day be his. Their favorite form of amusement was to stand on the outskirts of an important function and watch the big shots as they passed.

"Look, Mary," her husband would say scathingly. "Look at the way that old dub is dressed. They say she's worth plenty, too. Boy, if I had her dough, I'd tog you out like nobody's business. I will, too, some day. Just wait and see."

So Mary waited—and waited. The months rolled by, and Arthur did little about getting the money aside from talking and dreaming. It grew so bad that non-appearance of actual cash began to threaten their marriage.

Their bitterness centered upon each other. Deprived of the thing they wanted most in life, they became irritable. They began to insult each other with that beautiful finesse that comes only after months of married life. They still loved each other after a fashion, I suppose. But love, to them, wasn't nearly as important as that million.

You probably knew that Arthur would eventually hit the perfect plan. Did I tell you that he was a salesman? I didn't? Well, he was a salesman, anyway. Not a very hot one, but good enough. One of those persistent birds who dig their toes under the door and talk until you buy out of sheer weariness. In all his travels he had found but one woman who actually enjoyed hearing him talk.

That woman was Mrs. Hale. Good, old Mrs. Hale. Fat, frivolous, 44, fervent and positively filthy with dough. Just what the doctor orders for a patient who dreams of easy money. A widow for some years, Mrs. Hale yearned for a new romance. For some strange reason, our hero seemed to fill the bill. The lady wanted to stop being called Mrs. Hale and become Mrs. Green. Sort of a Hale and farewell.

Did she get her man? Well, I hope I've described the man accurately enough for you to know that she did. Get a load of his lingo as he tells his little Mary all about it.

"Listen, honey, it's just what we've been waiting for. The chance of a lifetime. The old dame wants to marry me. Can you beat that?

"The whole thing is a cinch. All you have to do is divorce me. I'll get her to pay you plenty of alimony for me, and she'll do it too. She's so crazy about me that she'll do anything.

"I'll stick with her for a couple of years and get all the dough I can out of her. Meanwhile, you'll be salting your money away. I'll ditch her when we both have plenty. You and I will get married all over again. And we'll both be sitting pretty. Did you ever hear of a more perfect plan?"

Nice feller . . .

We skip a year. That's so easy to do—in print. And now what do we find? Silly of me to ask you when I'm the only one who knows. It's that heat again. At any rate, Arthur is now married to the woman he doesn't love. He is paying plenty of alimony to his ex-wife, and seeing her whenever possible. He is living in luxury—and she's not quite as happy as he thought he'd be.

And Mary? When the monthly alimony check came in, was she putting it away for the day that she and her darling would be together again? I'm sorry to say that she wasn't.

Enter Harold, the serpent in Arthur's Eden. Harold was his present wife's grown son. He was a sneering, sulking youth who was almost as old as his new papa. Harold knew all the angles, and he had nothing but contempt for the man his mother had married. There was no open enmity between the two men, but you'd never mistake them for two doves.

Boom goes another year. And still another. Arthur visited Mary more frequently now, neglecting his elderly wife to do so. Mary was dissatisfied, and said so frankly. When she wanted to know, was Arthur going to give his aging mamma the air? She was sick of this scheming and sneaking.

Arthur kept putting her off. The money wasn't coming as easily as he had anticipated. His wife was keeping him firmly bound by his dependence upon her. Much as he now loved Mary, the idea of going back to his old life of privation was just a little too unattractive. So he urged Mary to wait a little longer.

It was then that the other woman solved the entire problem in the simplest of fashions. She merely went to sleep one night and didn't get up any more. Arthur was exultant. What could be more perfect? He now have Mary and the money, too. Hot-Cha!

The day after the funeral, the will was read. Arthur sat quietly and tried his best to look tearful. The lawyer talked. The entire estate of the late Mrs. Greene was left to her son by a former marriage, Harold Hale. And to her husband, Arthur Greene, went the sum of $1.

Arthur no longer had to act the tearful part. He sat stunned and miserable. He raised his eyes and looked over at Harold. There was no mistaking the triumphant smile on the face of the other man. Arthur knew that Harold knew. And he knew that Harold had told his mother about Mary. The bequest of $1 was Mrs. Greene's little joke; her reward to Arthur for his unfaithfulness.

It took him almost two days before he could summon enough courage to visit Mary. He had put it off as long as possible because he dreaded the explanations and the scenes that would surely ensue. They were back now where they had started from three years before. Back to the poverty that would now be even harder to bear than it had been in the beginning. True, Mary had saved some money. But how long would that last?

At Mary's boarding house, the landlady was most courteous to Mr. Greene. She was sorry—but Mary had moved away two days before.

"She's going to be married," she explained.

"Married?" repeated Mr. Greene, incredulously. "To whom?"

The landlady smiled.

"I can't remember his name exactly," she replied, "but it's some young man who has been coming to see her for six months or so. He just came into a fortune. I think the name is Wale or Hale or—, Hale, that it! Harold Hale." . . .

PLAYS AND PLAYERS -:- By William J. Lewis

Will Rogers has just signed a new film contract with Fox, under which he will make four pictures, the first of which will be "Jubilo," modernized and musical. The second will be "State Fair," which will have Janet Gaynor as well as Rogers in the cast.

* * *

The Fulton begins its new screen week today with "A Passport To Hell" as the feature of the program. Elissa Landi, said to have been named by the late Florenz Ziegfeld as one of the 10 most beautiful women in the world, has the featured role. Alexander Kirkland, Paul Lukas and Warner Oland are in the cast.

Some of the girls of the silent films who dropped out with the talkies are coming back. In "White Zombie," one of the current films, is Madge Bellamy, who was an ingenue of sorts in other days and who did appear in one talker, "Mother Knows Best," and then seemed to disappear. Vilma Banky, whose accent allowed her to appear in but one talkie, is being considered for a new film. So is Norma Talmadge, once the most popular of gals who fluttered with the silent shadows of the silver sheet.

Novarro to Play 'Man On the Nile'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

England's annual dramatic festival is under way, having started on Monday, in the Malvern Hills, where Wales begins. There will be two interesting revivals—"The Alchemist" by Ben Johnson and "London Assurance" by Dion Boucicault. Henry Fielding's burlesque, "Tom Thumb the Great," is also on the bill, along with Thomas Southerne's tragedy of "Oroonoko" and that rollicking farce "Ralph Roister Doister," which is almost perfectly described by its title.

The modern play—there is always one new production — is nothing new to us. It is Bernard Shaw's "Too True to Be Good," seen in Pittsburgh some weeks before New York and almost a year before England. The Burglar-Preacher will be played by Cedric Hardwicke, the Alfred Lunt of Britain. He created the part of old Barrett when the Wimpole Street comedy-romance was first produced—at Malvern.

Mr. Seibel

STRATFORD IN RIVALRY

Meanwhile the Stratford Summer Festival, supplementing the season that always begins with Shakespeare Week, has put on "The Merchant of Venice," staged by Komisarjevsky. The Russians have recently staged "Hamlet" with Bolshevik improvements. But the reports about the Moscow edition of Shylock only indicate that it goes back to early days, when the distinguished financier of the Rialto was a ranting and bloodthirsty usurer.

Komisarjevsky had just returned from Edinburgh, where he staged Knoblock's dramatic version of A. J. Cronin's novel, "Hatter's Castle."

London has also gone in for summer theatricals and open-air Shakespeare. They have dug an amphitheater to seat 3,000 in Regent's Park and are playing "Twelfth Night" at popular prices.

Incidentally some one has discovered that Shakespeare was fond of whiskey. The proof is in "Antony and Cleopatra" (act 4, scene 7): "I have yet room for six scotches more."

OUR SUMMER THEATERS

The summer theater habit is growing everywhere. Our American summer theaters are becoming producing centers. Paul McGrath, of the old George Sharp stock, then the Waiter with Helen Hayes in "The Good Fairy," is creating the principal role in a new comedy, "The Bachelor Tax," at White Plains, N. Y. Violet Kemble-Cooper is the principal figure in "Widow's Mite," at Magnolia, Mass. Pedro de Cordoba will introduce "Strange Gods" at Sharon, Conn.

They aren't all going in for novelties. At Westport, Conn., a new version of Moliere's "School for Husbands" is being put on by June Walker and Osgood Perkins.

Meanwhile the one vastly prosperous company of last season, the hundred Negro players of "The Green Pastures," have returned East and will open in Boston on Labor Day. De Lawd, that is Richard B. Harrison, is spending a short vacation in Harlem.

40 AND 8 MEET WITH LEGION

A night parade in costume followed by a "Grand Wreck." (initiation) will be among features of the State "40 and 8" sessions to be held simultaneous with the Pennsylvania Department American Legion convention opening here August 18.

Mr. James

Glenn B. James, chef de gare of Voiture Locale No. 5, is general convention chairman for the fun group of veterans. Salvatore Cancelliere, grand cheminot of Southwestern Pennsylvania, is co-chairman. Other commitee members are George C. Brown, Masontown, grand chief de gare, and Matty Bain, Uniontown, grand correspondent.

The "40 and 8" will open its buisness sessions on the first night at convention headquarters in the William Penn Hotel. Election of officers will close the sessions the next day. The parade, on the third night, will be from North Side to the downtown district with the "wreck" planned at the Academy Theater. The members will join in the legion parade on the closing day.

New Air Freight System Starts Here

Pittsburgh today was connected with 125 cities for the dispatch of merchandise by airplane in the inaugural of the General Air Express, the Interline System, a nation-wide air express system with connections in Canada, Mexico and South America. The service is sponsored by the Postal Telegraph Cable Company and its local outlets are the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and the Pennsylvania Airlines, Inc.

Firemen to Open Carnival Tonight

The annual three-day carnival of the Castle Shannon Volunteer Fire Department will begin tonight, with a parade of 30 fire trucks. Tomorrow and Saturday night water battles will be staged. Ben Augenstein is in charge of the carnival.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

MAN UNREPENTANT AFTER KILLING YOUNG WIFE

POLITICS

Only 'Relief' Thus Far Is for Legislators

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—This special session of the Legislature, convened to provide unemployment relief, has been in session for six weeks. Today the only gainers are the members themselves, who have received $500 for what some of them apologetically call their labors and deliberations.

Mr. Shields

There is no assurance that they will complete their task next week. It is barely possible that all revenue legislation for relief, now openely before the House, may be buried under an adverse vote next Monday night that would put the Legislature, so far as affording state relief is concerned, right back where it was six weeks ago when something known as a harmony program was introduced after what was thought to be an agreement had been reached between Gov. Pinchot and the Republican state organization.

One more semblance of harmony, and the warfare will be decimating.

The hope for relief now stands: The House has passed the Talbot bill to provide appropriations of $12,000,000 to the several counties of the state, the money to be distributed as was the $10,000,000 of the Talbot bill of 1931. That would mean Allegheny County would receive something more than $2,000,000 from the state.

* * *

Funds Lacking; New Taxes Are Opposed

But to raise the money for this appropriation there is no revenue whatever. The Talbot bill is like an automobile without an engine. It can't get any where. For the Senate, having learned its lesson in the last special session, when money was appropriated without revenue, will not pass another relief bill which does not have taxes back of it. And the Senate is opposed to new taxes.

In the House next Monday night there are two bills on the calendar for relief purposes. One is a direct income tax measure, imposing 1 per cent with credits for filing a return which will exempt any one having an income of less than $2,000, the other puts a flat tax on occupations, a thinly disguised income tax. It is just the rose by another name, and it smells as sour—in the way it would work.

Consider the income tax. The Constitution forbids a graded tax. It must be flat. In order to eliminate the small income earner a provision is inserted that every one who files an income return with the state—and all must—shall be paid $20. That figure is fixed to eliminate the citizen who otherwise would have to pay 1 per cent on an income of $2,000.

But where is the state to get the $20 it must pay to those filing returns of less than $2,000, the bulk of the citizenry of the commonwealth? There will be money in it for those with small wages who file returns. This is just one of the perplexing points.

* * *

Could Wife of Jobless Man Be Taxed?

Now for the occupational tax bill. Exonerations are permitted, and presumably the man without a job, having no occupation, will not have to pay any tax.

But there is presupposed a minimum tax of one dollar, and that applies to housewives. According to what I have heard about my own home, the duties of a housewife are never vacated, and she always has a job on her hands. Therefore, can the wife of an unemployed man, her employment being continuous—let's even say arduous—be assessed the one dollar while the theoretical head of the house goes free of taxation.

Ask the Legislature!

Further, on this basis, the lawyer with a practice yielding him $5,000 a year will pay as great a tax as the lawyer who has an income 10 times that much.

* * *

Estimate of Revenue Means Nothing

The economists of the House estimate that this tax will bring in $12,000,000 a year. They don't know a thing about it. The significant fact is that this sum exactly matches the relief bill passed by the House and before the Senate. If that bill called for appropriations of $24,000,000 it could be as easily estimated the occupational tax would yield as much.

The entire situation is cited merely to illustrate the hysteria and helplessness which have laid hold of a leaderless Legislature trying to do something without knowing what is the answer, and aching to be told, even though the answer is wrong.

There has been nothing constructive in six weeks. There will be nothing constructive in seven or eight, unless there is a complete change of attitude and some strong-spined—even though wrong-minded boss appears.

Gosh, how they want to be led, or driven, or edged, into a position where they can pass the buck to someone else if the relief measures do not meet the relief need.

* * *

Hearts Are Right But Heads Are Wrong

Don't misjudge these legislators. Their hearts are right. They would like to do something. They would like to help. But their heads are as wrong as hearts are right.

Moreover, there should be little patience with a handful of holier-than-thou members who sit back complacently, criticise their fellows, but who offer nothing but fulminating speeches to be read by the people back home. This column has printed none of those speeches, but if pressed might be induced to print the names of the offenders.

Thousands at Funeral for Five

FIVE HEARSES LEAVING CROWDED ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN CHURCH WITH AUTO VICTIMS

The funeral for Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Wendell and their son, Edwin, Jr., 15, of 1617 Howard street, and the Rev. and Mrs. William Schwirian, of Montgomery, Pa., all killed in a railroad train-auto crash, from St. Mark's, East North avenue. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

City, County Treasury Offices Should be Merged for Economy

Taxpayers of Pittsburgh are paying for the upkeep of their city treasury this year the sum of $175,000, which includes the delinquent tax office.

These same taxpayers are contributing more than 60 per cent to operate the county treasurer's office, which is budgeted this year at $206,482. The taxpayers outside the city limits pay the rest, almost 40 per cent.

The city treasurer's office could be consolidated with the county's. Their functions are so similar that a reasonable expansion in the county structure could care for the city funds. The Mayor and Controller in the city could approve the accounts from one as easily as from the other.

ELIMINATE WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

This would allow $75,000 a year for the extension of the county office—a high estimate, probably liberal.

The functions of the County Treasurer are comprehensive. Taxes and revenues come to the county in great bulk from the city—from almost the same people who pay the city's taxes. The duplication, like that of county and city assessors, is apparent.

Political leaders who hold the best interests of the taxpayers in their minds can see this saving. Students of government are certain of the injustices and waste in naving city taxpayers keep up entirely, a city treasurer's office, and contribute more than 60 per cent to a county treasurer's office, when they should sensibly support only one.

There might have to be changes in the laws. A Legislature with economy, rather than political expediency, would see the advantages of such a consolidation.

One advantage in service that would prevail, if such a consolidation were effected, would be to centralize the billing of the taxpayers and other revenue-payers. It would centralize, providing other city reforms were instituted, the collecting of taxes. It would remove the confusion taxpayers meet in transacting their business.

Primarily, at this time, money could be saved the taxpayers. The idea is practical; it could be put into motion and the consolidation accomplished, if Mayor Kline and City Council were inclined to aid the people.

One of the functions of the City Treasurer's office is the collection of school taxes. Under a consolidated system, this service would be in no wise confused or complicated.

Consolidations are not always considered desirable. But where the functions and services are duplicated, where they coincide, such a step is good business.

Such action would, many believe, be another step toward reducing taxes—and it would be a permanent step.

BUILDING TIEUP MOVE HINTED

A two-hour conference of state and federal conciliators with representatives of unions and contractors late yesterday failed to adjust the three-week strike of a dozen hoisting engineers which has tied up work on the new $8,000,000 postoffice.

Following the meeting Miss Emmeline Pitt, conciliator of the United States Department of Labor, intimated that federal pressure may be brought into the controversy between the union and contractors.

POLICE HORSE KICKS CHILD

Gilbert Mauney, 19-months-old son of George Mauney, of Chicago, was in Children's Hospital today with a fractured pelvis and lacerations of the head, suffered when he was kicked by Mounted Patrolman Frank Snee's horse at Schenley Oval yesterday.

The child strayed close to the horse's heels and a bystander, noting his precarious position, ran to draw him away. The animal, startled, kicked and struck the child.

AGREE TO SLASH CITY EXPENSES $1,200,000

Kline, Council Adopt Economy Program To Avoid Deficit

Agreements were reached at the economy conference yesterday by the Mayor, Council and the department heads, which will enable the city to save $1,200,000 and avoid a deficit this fall, according to President of Council John S. Herron.

Herron declined to comment on the means to be used in making this saving other than to say that not all of the suggestions for eliminations made by the Mayor's finance committee are possible.

Following the two-hour closed session in the Mayor's conference room, it was indicated that the economies which the city will effect will be drastic, with numerous eliminations of jobs and reductions in working time.

ANOTHER MEETING

Mayor Charles H. Kline announced that another joint meeting of his cabinet and Council has been called for next Wednesday.

The Mayor declined to discuss what had taken place in the conference. He pointed out, however, that the estimates of savings made by his finance committee—totaling $1,307,833—are too high because they were figured as of two months ago.

Herron was more optimistic. He said:

"The conference was very satisfactory. I think the Mayor now understands we were trying to help him. It is plain the executive and legislative departments of the city should act together to meet this problem. I feel certain we will be able to save the $1,200,000 necessary to avoid the deficit."

Among the recommendations of the Mayor's finance committee which Herron said are not feasible, was the proposed elimination of one half of the board of assessors. He said the number of assessors was set by state law.

COLLECTORS TO GO

Temporary employes in the Treasurer's office which the committee would eliminate are the ones who have been making collections at the wharf parking stations, where revenues have increased in the last year.

The suggested elimination of recreation activities has already brought a protest from the Civic Club, and the swimming pools have only a short time to run before fall and are in popular demand, he explained.

The proposed payroll cuts were explained to the conference by Maj. Philip Matthews, of the Bureau of Governmental Research. There were six members of Council present, the absentees being W. Y. English, C. B. Connelley and Charles Anderson.

Wife Has Mate Arrested At His Father's Funeral

MRS. MARIE BREWSTER . . . HUSBAND ARRESTED AT A GRAVE

Two Trail Mourners To Butler, Seize Man at Grave

Two constables followed a funeral procession from Aspinwall to Butler to arrest Delmar Brewster after Brewster's father was buried late yesterday.

The arrest was made in the cemetery by Constables Frank Casper and Frank Carricato, on a desertion and non-support warrant sworn before Justice of the Peace James Hernon by Brewster's wife, Marie, a hostess at Mt. Valley Lodge, a roadhouse.

Brewster returned to Aspinwall from Baltimore yesterday to attend his father's funeral at the family home, 326½ Second street, Aspinwall.

Brewster was sent to the county jail in default of $1,000 bail.

Mrs. Brewster said:

"We have been married eight years, and separated 10 months ago. I need the money for my child, James, of a former marriage, who is staying with my father. My father is not able to support him."

Man Stabbed in Fight, Hill Woman Sought

Hill district police are seeking Rose Thompson, 28, a Negro, of 67 Robert street, who, they say, stabbed Joseph Riley, 36, Negro, of the same address, during a fight early today. Riley is in a serious condition in Passavant Hospital.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 4.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It's awful hard to get your mind on such insignificant things as Republican or Democratic candidates with fifteen hundred picked athletes of the world breaking records under your nose. If an athlete wins an event and don't break a world's record, we hiss him out of the arena.

Incidentally the man that brought the first "slaves" to this country must have had these Olympic games in mind, for these "Senagambians" have just about run the white man ragged. Every winner is either an American Negro, or an American white woman.

Will Rodgers

Wait till we get to golf, bridge, or cocktail shaking, then the American white man will come into his own. Everybody out here is predicting this California record-breaking to continue right up till after November fourth, when Roosevelt will outrun Hoover, Tolan, Metcalf, and maybe Babe Didrickson.

Yours.

WILL.

STABS VICTIM WHO REFUSED TO RETURN

Freed in Beating of Mate, He Takes Revenge

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 4.—Composed and apparently unrepentant, Harry A. Clark, 24, father of two children, waited in Washington County Jail today to be turned over to the Coroner for stabbing to death his pretty young wife, Laura, 23, yesterday.

For love, he admitted, he followed his estranged wife to the home of a neighbor, where she had fled from his blows, and drove his newly sharpened hunting knife deep into her body six times, his alleged confession read.

The slaying ended Clark's efforts to persuade his wife to return to him. She had left their Walnut street home a week ago after she caused his arrest for beating her, police said. Upon his promise not to harm her, Clark had been released without a fine.

RETURNED TO HOME

Since then Mrs. Clark had been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clutter, 31 Third street. She returned to Clark's home yesterday for the birth certificate of her children, Virginia, 5, and Carroll, 3.

When she refused his plea for reconciliation, Clark tore the birth certificates into shreds and slammed a door on her face, causing her nose to bleed, she told Mrs. A. J. Jarvis, a neighbor, also of Walnut street.

The young wife fled to the home of Mrs. Jarvis to call her father to her assistance. Mrs. Jarvis told police:

"She came here to use the phone, and when I saw her nose bleeding I knew he had been beating her again. I looked out the window and I saw him coming toward here. She was afraid, but I told her I didn't think he would harm her.

"He came to the door, and, very pleasantly, asked to see his wife. 'I just want to talk to her,' he said. He brushed me away from the door and went into the room where she was."

WOMAN SEES SLAYING

Mrs. Jarvis said she heard Clark exclaim:

"Will you come back to me? You won't?

Mrs. Jarvis continued:

"Then I saw him take the knife from his shirt, and I screamed. Then he threw her to the floor and stabbed her again and again. I wanted to call a doctor, but Clark said it wouldn't be any use."

Police Chief Joseph Verderber, who rushed to the Jarvis home with the girl's father, found Clark calm, knife in hand and willing to surrender. He readily admitted the killing, police said.

To police questioning, they reported he said:

"I did it for love. If she won't live with me, she won't live with anybody else."

He was led to the District Attorney, where he was reported to have signed a confession. He will stand trial during the present term of court.

Why Not Toss Some Loose Cash At Our Farmers?

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

All wealth comes out of the ground. And the farmer is the bookkeeper.

So why concentrate on the railroads and the banks? Why don't they lend some money to the plow jockeys for reconstruction?

The butter and egg industry is bigger than the entire steel business. You can incorporate a hen but you can't make her sign the papers. When a cow kicks over a milk pail she's sunk a battleship. When politics strikes a barn it takes the lightning rod with it.

Let Washington do the financing and the farmer will ride herd on the field mice. Keep the government expert and the broker out of the wheat fields and the farmer will bring this country around so fast it will grab two brass rings and ride free forever.

The answer to the thing is wheat, corn and produce. Don't forget, that without a beanstalk there would have been no Jack the Giant Killer.

Irish Senate Votes New Annuity Move

DUBLIN, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The Irish Free State Senate passed a motion last night calling for reopening of negotiations with Great Britain regarding the Irish land annuities, which President Eamon De Valera's government has failed to pay.

Declaring the policy of the De Valera government to be one of creating an Irish republic, including Ulster, Senator Joseph Connolly said he could "tell Ramsay MacDonald he has no hope of getting his war debts even considered by America so long as this question remains unsettled."

Christmas Card Used by Woman For Will

A Christmas postcard was used by Miss Ida Tyson, McKeesport widow, to bequeath a house and lot to her son, Clarence H. It was offered for probate as her will today. She directed the house not to be sold unless her sisters, Rose and Irene, agreed. The will was dated April 19, 1932.

The card bearing the usual holiday greeting "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year," was signed "Jack."

County Sued Over Damage to Land

Frank J. Seifried, who owns a tract of land in Scott Township, on the Washington road, has brought suit against Allegheny County for $33,000 damages, for damages to his property by construction of a bridge and relocation of the roadway. The changes, he says, were made as a result of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company petitioning the county to raise the Hope Hollow road crossing above grade.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Society Happenings

In Maytair —With— Patricia Pitt

Of great interest to Pittsburgh folks is the announcement made this morning, of the marriage yesterday, in the First Baptist Church, Phoenix, Arizona, of Vira Ingham, formerly of Pittsburgh, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sherman S. Ingham, of Pittsburgh, to Clifford S. Heinz, of Pittsburgh. The ceremony took place in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends, including Miss Henrietta Heinz and Mrs. P. J. Heinz, of Pittsburgh. Officiating was the Rev. C. A. Heydon, pastor of the church.

Mrs. Heinz, a distant cousin of Mr. Heinz, has, since the death of her parents, lived in the West.

After a short trip, Mr. Heinz and his bride will come to Pittsburgh to live in the Schenley Apartments, and their winter home will be in Pasadena, Cal.

THE POPULAR BOLERO OFFERS SMARTNESS, THRIFT TO FROCK

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The bolero is the best of all possible aids to the combination of smartness and thrift. So the French have proven in this year's crop of warm-weather clothes. The bolero, in dozens of colors and as many lines, appears as magic waist which may make a single dress seem as two, three or more frocks.

* * *

NOT EVEN the most exclusive of fashionable dressmaking shops is above this fashionable gesture of thrift. Mirande, of Rue de la Paix, puts dresses of this type on her mannequins to show how a change of bolero will entirely alter the appearance of the simplest frock.

* * *

THE MIRANDE dress sketched today is one listed as a beach dress, but will serve wherever informal clothes may be worn. It is of white crepe de chine, with bias cut skirt and front-closing blouse. The drop-shouldered line, which becomes a cap-sleeve at both sides, is marked by two little half-moon folds of the fabric—a decorative touch allied to the little plaits at the blouse-front.

* * *

A DRESS of this type may be worn with any number of boleros and little jacket. Red flannel may give a sportslike effect which can be completely changed when the frock takes on a wrap-around jacket of printed chiffon.

* * *

THE CREPE DE CHINE jacket in the sketch is one of those in-between type which is equally at home on a resort boardwalk or afternoon dancing. It is of bright green dotted with white; its fabric is repeated in the sash belt which ties at the front, and in the big handkerchief which hangs from the single pocket on the right hip.

AUTOIST HITS WAGON, FLEES; TWO HURT

The driver of an automobile who fled from his upset car last night after it had overturned a wagon and injured two persons in the Liberty tubes, was being sought by county police today.

Samuel Goldstein, 55, of 1019 Vickroy street, a huckster, and Samuel Olup, 13, of 53 Greenleaf street, a helper, were knocked from the wagon when the car struck it. They were taken to Mercy Hospital. A warrant will be issued for the owner of the car, police said.

The horse broke from the wagon and raced the mile through the tube before it was captured by County Patrolman William Woolrich.

Mrs. Priscilla Worrall, 70, of Pacific avenue, McKeesport, was in the McKeesport Hospital today with injuries suffered when an automobile in which she was a passenger was struck by one driven by John L. Brown, 30, of 7020 Wiltsie street, in the East Pittsburgh-McKeesport boulevard yesterday. Brown was held to await the result of her injuries.

Norman L. Glasser, 44, Carnegie superintendent of schools, and his wife, were cut and bruised yesterday when their automobile skidded and struck a tree near Watertown, N. Y. Dr. J. C. Glasser, 46, of Blairsville, suffered concussion of the brain and internal injuries and his wife a broken arm.

LONG CONTRACT URGED ON CITY

A charge of unfairness to new bidders in connection with the city's annual $1,600,000 garbage and rubbish removal contract has been made to City Council by the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers' Association.

The present one-year contract is not long enough to assure new bidders a return on the investment, the building owners declare, recommending a five to 10-year contract. They also suggest the contracts be advertised immediately to give new bidders a chance at the 1933 business.

Bids should be taken separately on collection and disposal of garbage, they declare. A five-year contract for collection and a 10-year contract for disposal is recommended.

EAST END WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

Eleanor M. Woolheater, of 408 North Winebiddle avenue, has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court against Charles W. Woolheater, 5110 Second avenue, charging cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities. They were married January 17, 1928.

FEDERAL DRYS ARREST THREE

Prohibition agents arrested three men in raids yesterday in Oakdale, Imperial and in the city.

Antonio Musico, of Gormley avenue, Oakdale, was arrested following confiscation of 282 pints of beer, the agents reported. Robert S. Wright was reported arrested in the Imperial raid, which yielded 55 quarts of beer and one gallon of whisky.

John Chioda was arrested in a raid on an alleged speakeasy in Chatham street, where raiders said they seized 194 pints of beer, six pints of gin and two pints of whisky. Thirty-six gallons of beer mash was destroyed.

Pu-Yi to Abolish Rights of Aliens

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The government of Henry Pu-Yi at Changchun has decided to abolish all extraterritorial rights enjoyed by citizens of the principal powers in Manchuria, authoritative reports from there said today.

These rights, which gave the citizens the protection of courts of their own governments in many matters, were enjoyed under the rule of China.

Lucrezia Bori Back, 'Glad' to Take Cut

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Lucrezia Bori, opera singer, back today from abroad, declared artists connected with the Metropolitan Opera House almost all were glad to accept salary reductions to help keep the institution alive.

VETS TO PARADE WITH BIG GUNS

A parade of large field guns will be seen downtown tomorrow as the American Legion prepares for the state convention exhibit. The parade is scheduled to cross the Smithfield Street Bridge at 1 p. m. and proceed over Smithfield street to the Gimbel store, where the exhibition will be on view during the convention, which opens August 18.

The Legion Drum and Bugle Corps of Duquesne will head the procession, followed by 15 all-white automobiles bearing committee members.

Bigham Elected By Carnegie G. O. P.

The Republican organization of Carnegie elected R. F. Bigham, a member of the Board of Mercantile Appraisers, as its chairman at a meeting last night. Bigham defeated W. G. Griffith and Independent Republican leaders. Mrs. Margaret Passavant was elected secretary, and J. K. Nickel was named treasurer.

ERK ADVOCATES INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS

Congressman Edmund F. Erk, who was elected on a platform urging revenue-producing public improvements to provide employment and pioneered in a program for the restoration of business and industry, still advocates an industrial congress for the final consummation of his plan

It is pointed out that practically all of the major items proposed by him have been acted upon favorably.

As a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Representative Stephen G. Porter in the Seventy-first Congress, Erk emphasized the urgency of immediate construction of all authorized public improvements. In the present term of Congress he renewed his efforts for government relief measures and attended three conferences with President Hoover in advocating his plans.

While the administration and Congress seemed deadlocked on numerous issues, Erk introduced a concurrent resolution authorizing an industrial congress. He said:

"We have balanced the budget; now let us get down to business and balance the wheels of industry. Let us find jobs for the millions of unemployed."

Again Erk laid his plan before the White House. There was an immediate response, and in a special message to Congress, President Hoover recommended prompt measures to provide for revenue-producing improvements. In a statement presented with his resolution, Erk enumerated proposals necessary for the restoration of business. Of these, 17 have been enacted into laws or are under consideration for the coming session of Congress.

Notable among the relief measures urged by the Pittsburgh Congressman are the public building program, amending the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to allow states and municipalities to borrow for relief needs; the establishment of home loan banks; reduction of governmental activities in legitimate business; insurance and protection of bank deposits; setting machinery in motion to deal directly with unemployment relief; strict enforcement of the statutes dealing with the deportation of undesirable aliens; steps toward the legalization of beer and its consequent taxation as a source of revenue, and plans for the widespread adoption of the five-day week.

Mary Roberts Rinehart Nurse Again, for Husband

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Mary Roberts Rinehart, author, who as a nurse ministered to the sick in a Pittsburgh hospital when she was a young woman, today was enacting again the old role in part—this time at the beside of her husband, Dr. Stanley Marshall Rinehart.

The husband's condition was described at the hospital yesterday as "not quite as good as it was Tuesday." Hospital officials said he is suffering from collapse. He came to the hospital last Saturday from a summer home in the Adirondacks.

It was in just such surroundings that Mary Roberts met her husband in the last decade of the 1800's. She had entered nursing as a career and he was a young physician. They were married April 21, 1896.

Lightning Strikes Troops, Six Killed

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Lightning struck a detachment of soldiers on the march near Powursk, Volhynia, today, killing six and injuring six more.

HELP the American Legion Unemployed. Give your empty Canada Dry bottles to a Legionnaire

Instead of returning your empty Canada Dry bottles to your dealer for the refund, call Legion Headquarters—Atlantic 9730—and a Legionnaire will call to collect them. The "big bottles" are worth 5c. The 12-ounce bottles are worth 2c. Funds obtained are to go to the Legion unemployed.

WINCHELL ON RADIO -:- Legion Quartet In Vet Program -:- FIVE DANCE BANDS

Mid-Summer Yuletide Fun Festival Feature With Vallee Tonight

Another in the series of American Legion programs being presented in connection with the state convention of that organization to be held in Pittsburgh August 18-20 is scheduled on WCAE tonight at 6:50. John B. Nicklas, past commander of the American Legion of Allegheny County, is guest speaker. The musical portion of the program is presented by the quartet of Observatory Post No. 81 and the WCAE Orchestra, under the direction of James G. Borrelli. The members of the quartet are John McPoland and Herbert James, tenors; Fred Schrimser, baritone, and Lee Funcke, basso.

Mr. Nicklas

Five outstanding dance orchestras present three hours of rhythm on WCAE tonight from 10 to 1. Anson Weeks and his orchestra, playing from San Francisco, share honors with Red Nichols and his band, from Denver, during the wandering cigaret hour starring Walter Winchell, breezy Broadway writer, and Walter O'Keefe, at 10. At 11 o'clock, Paul Whiteman and his Chieftains go on the air until midnight, followed by Tom Gerun, broadcasting from the Hotel New Yorker, at 12:05. A half-hour of Dick Gasperre's music is heard from 12:30 to 1.

Sir Edward Elgar's majestic march, "Pomp and Circumstance," opens an all-English program by the Goldman Band on KDKA tonight at 8:30. The program, which originates on the New York University campus, also includes excerpts from "Pinafore" and Williams' "Old English Folksong Suite I and II."

Program Pointers

Sarah Logan, well-known Pittsburgh contralto, is featured as guest artist with the KDKA concert orchestra, directed by Zoel Parenteau, on the Silhouettes program broadcast over an NBC network from the studios of the pioneer station today at 5 o'clock. Miss Logan's solos are Tschaikowsky's "One Who Has Yearned Alone," Ronald's "Oh, Lovely Night," and "Till I Wake" from "Four Indian Love Lyrics." Excerpts from "The Band Wagon" are orchestral highlights of the broadcast.

Miss Logan

Olsen and Johnson steal a long march on all competitors and present a mid-summer Yuletide program with Rudy Vallee and his orchestra on WCAE tonight at 8.

Johnny Hart, the "Dancin' Fool" of the "Big Time" sketches, is the subject of Ward Wilson's mimicry on KDKA at 7:15.

"The Storm Rhapsody," an original short story adapted for radio presentation, is dramatized on WJAS at 9:30 tonight.

Fan Fare

Bette Davis, petite motion picture actress who played the role of Mary Lucy with Seth Parker (Phillips H. Lord) in his picture, "Way Back Home," took an evening off recently to watch Lord broadcast his "Seth Parker" program . . . Virginia Rea has only one superstition—she refuses to walk under a ladder . . . Irma Glenn claims to be on more radio programs in a week than any other artist on the air. She does 19 commercials and 18 straight recitals weekly.

Miss Davis

Welcome Lewis, who was the first radio star to use the lapel microphone in her stage appearances, has discarded it for a regular one . . . The change was made after a manager came back and asked where her "mike" was, and she pointed to it hidden in her corsage. "That's no good," he said, "you're a radio star and the people expect to see you behind a microphone."

Frank Luther is planning to do a series of recitals this fall between broadcasts . . . Among other things, Ranny Weeks, the Boston baritone, is an amateur magician . . . Mildred Bailey has a weakness for shoes and has more than 100 pairs.

Graham Harris defines jazz as "a bad case of noise in a hurry" . . . James Melton always sleeps an hour after a rehearsal and an hour before a radio program or a recital . . . The only piece of jewelry Connie Boswell owns is an old gold signet ring that has been in the family for 150 years.

Freddie Meyers and Yodeling Bill Dooley, radio song and chatter duo, have returned to the air. The boys are starred on "The Morning Hangover" program on KQV every Monday and Thursday at 11:45 a. m.

First actual ROAD TEST, conducted with the Electric Ear . . . proves TYDOL'S superiority over 16 other gasolines. It leads in:

ANTI-KNOCK . . Your own ear will tell you, in your own car, that TYDOL tops the field in anti-knock quality.

POWER . . . . . The fewer the knocks, the greater the power. Check TYDOL'S super-power on your own hills.

MILEAGE . . . . Your own speedometer will tell you that there are more miles in every gallon of New TYDOL.

The New TYDOL has more premium qualities than many so-called premium gasolines costing 3 cents more . . . Facts versus words? . . . Which should guide you in buying gasoline?

ROAD-TESTED BY THE Electric Ear

Western Electric engineers attest winning anti-knock quality of the New TYDOL. Using the Electric Ear, a microphone placed next to the engine, they picked up every ping and pound in 17 gasolines, analyzed and recorded them in 3-day road test.

ROGERS HORNSBY ART SHIRES LEFTY GRIMM

A MAN OF strong convictions, but doubtful diplomacy, a playboy of the diamond and a former playboy who has settled down to the more serious business of baseball and is reaping his reward are pictured above.

Rogers Hornsby has just been fired as manager and player of the Chicago Cubs, to be succeeded by Charley (Lefty) Grimm, former Pirate. Art Shires is on his way back to the minor leagues if Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Boston Braves, has his way.

HORNSBY HAS BEEN a stormy petrel of baseball as a member of four National League clubs, three of which he managed, the Cardinals, Braves and Cubs. He was grabbed from the Cardinals by John McGraw, of the Giants, after winning the pennant and beating the Yanks in the world series of 1926, with the idea, it was said then, of having him ultimately relieve McGraw of the managerial duties in New York. Something went wrong and he was shifted to Boston, where he succeeded Jack Slattery as manager, and from there he went to the Cubs, where he ousted Joe McCarthy as manager. It was freely predicted he was on the spot in the Chicago job, for McCarthy had been a successful and popular pilot there and it was up to Hornsby to deliver, or else.

Perhaps McCarthy can regard with some sort of poetic justice the Rajah's present plight, fired with the club in second place, as he himself drives the New York Yankees on toward a pennant. A strong will and none too much tact in handling the men surrounding him have been set down as the reasons for the collapse of the House of Hornsby in Chicago.

GRIMM, WHO SUCCEEDS Hornsby, is popular, none too forward in his aggressiveness, well grounded in the game. Given a fair chance, he may yet pull the team through the season to the pennant. He at least starts with the good wishes of the fans.

SHIRES, LIKE HORNSBY, has had a fighting career in the major leagues. In fact, a real fighting one that even extended to the prize ring. Just a fair player, he came up with a lot of dash and color and a yen for popping off that gave the followers of the game many laughs. His talk was full of conceit, but it was largely put on in a studied effort to attract attention. In a recent radio talk with the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, he said:

SHIRES IS NOBODY'S chump. His intelligence is above that of the ordinary player—but even in Boston they prefer a hard-hitting first baseman, and all of the chatter in the world won't make up for a basehit when it is sadly needed.

A WANDERER IN the fistic fields comes back home tonight a finished performer in one of the bouts scheduled at Greenlee Field. He is Nat Litfin, a Hill district boy, who left here three years ago for California and made good. Little has been heard from him beyond the bare results of his bouts. Tonight he meets Willie Davies, grand little veteran, of Charleroi, in the eight-round semi-final to the Jimmy Belmont-Frankie Goosby fracas.

Nat Litfin

WHEN LITFIN, a Jewish lad, left for the Pacific Coast, Davies still was in his prime, a great little flyweight, a contender for world honors. He has slipped some since then, but he still continues to ply his trade. His ring generalship and experience may prove stumbling blocks for Litfin, but Nat shows a scrapbook full of clippings of his feats in faraway California that indicate he is quite prepared for the test.

THE CLIPPINGS TELL of his boxing prowess, speed and punching power. He knocked out Young Nationalista in two rounds, defeated Leo Domingo, Bobby Rodriguez, Cliff Campbell, who holds victories over Davy Abad and Santiago Zorilla; Ray Gonzales and Battling Dodo, among others, and several times was on the verge of being matched with Baby Arizmendi, the Mexican kingpin on the Coast.

I ASKED LITFIN why he returned home when he was doing so well away. He replied:

"That's just the point. I was winning fights and compiling a record, but wasn't getting much money. I was a stablemate of Les Kennedy, the California heavyweight, but could not get matches at the larger clubs with the better fighters. I am not exactly saying they were ducking me, but the fact remains that I was kept from getting the big money shots. I felt I was ready and so decided to return home and try my luck."

Litfin started out as an amateur boxer at the Willow Club, in Lawrenceville, and won the district championship before turning professional after two years. He had 15 professional bouts around here before going away, boxing Sammy Paris, Young Ketchel, Johnny Edwards, Scotty Graham, Tony Eton, Young Jacobs, Andy Tomosky, Nick Malone and others, and appearing at the Moose Temple, Washington, Pa., Clarksburg, Steubenville, Wheeling, Youngstown and New Brighton. He was managed by Jesse Levy, to whom he returns now. In all of those 15 fights he lost only to Tomosky.

NAT NOW IS 22 years old and weighs 122 pounds. He has boxed at Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Diego, San Bernardino and Tucson, Ariz. He has engaged in 37 bouts in the Far West, of which he lost only two, one to Richie Thomas on a decision and another to a Tony Marino by a technical knockout when the doctor ordered the bout stopped because of a cut eye. The clippings say he was winning up to the time of the injury. Seventeen of those 37 battles were won by the knockout route.

HEY, HEY! Those Phillies. They're more than mere poison for the Pirates. They're actual contenders for the National League pennant. If you don't believe it, take a look at them in the standing of the clubs today.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—They have been waiting a long while, as Olympic games go, to wave the old flag so briskly, but today these Americans can go the patriotic limit, with the star-spangled banner draped all over the Olympic track and field band wagon.

With the big show only half completed, the United States has already dominated the greatest outbreak of Olympic record-smashing of all time, romped off with nine of the 16 track and field events for men and women, including the highly-cherished sprint titles, and rolled up a staggering margin on points.

Talk about picking their spots: After politely watching the flags of Ireland, Poland, Britain and Canada wave victoriously in the breezes, the Americans, with a startling rush, yesterday swept all four of the men's track and field finals conducted in the Stadium. A crowd estimated at nearly 85,000, the greatest in track history, went wild.

CROWD RECORD SMASHED

The record turnout sent the total attendance for four days beyond 225,000 for the stadium alone. The crowd saw little Eddie Tolan, American Negro, lead a sweep of the 200 meters final, to become the first double Olympic sprint champion the United States has had in 20 years.

They thrilled as sandy-haired Bill Miller, of San Diego, a product of Stanford University, outvaulted the sensational Japanese boy, Shuhei Nishdia, in the first 14-foot duel in Olympic history. The American boy finally won at 14 feet 1⅞ inches.

They roared again as three Yankee timber toppers, led to the tape by George Saling, of Iowa, swept the final of the spectacular 110-meter high hurdles race.

They volleyed cheers for their favorite feminine star, Babe Didrikson, of Texas, who broke her second world record in as many events by racing over the 80-meter high hurdles in the stunning time of 11.8 seconds, to lead three American girl qualifiers for today's final.

ANDERSON WINS

Finally, to saturate this home-bred, field day, the crowd watched two husky Americans six times excell the Olympic discus tossing record. Handsome John Anderson, former Cornell University star, finally beat Henri LaBorde, of Stanford, with a final heave of 162 feet 4⅞ inches.

Of the total of 12 flags that fluttered in honor of the Olympic medalists in these four events, 10 were the American emblem.

Far from the Stadium's tumult

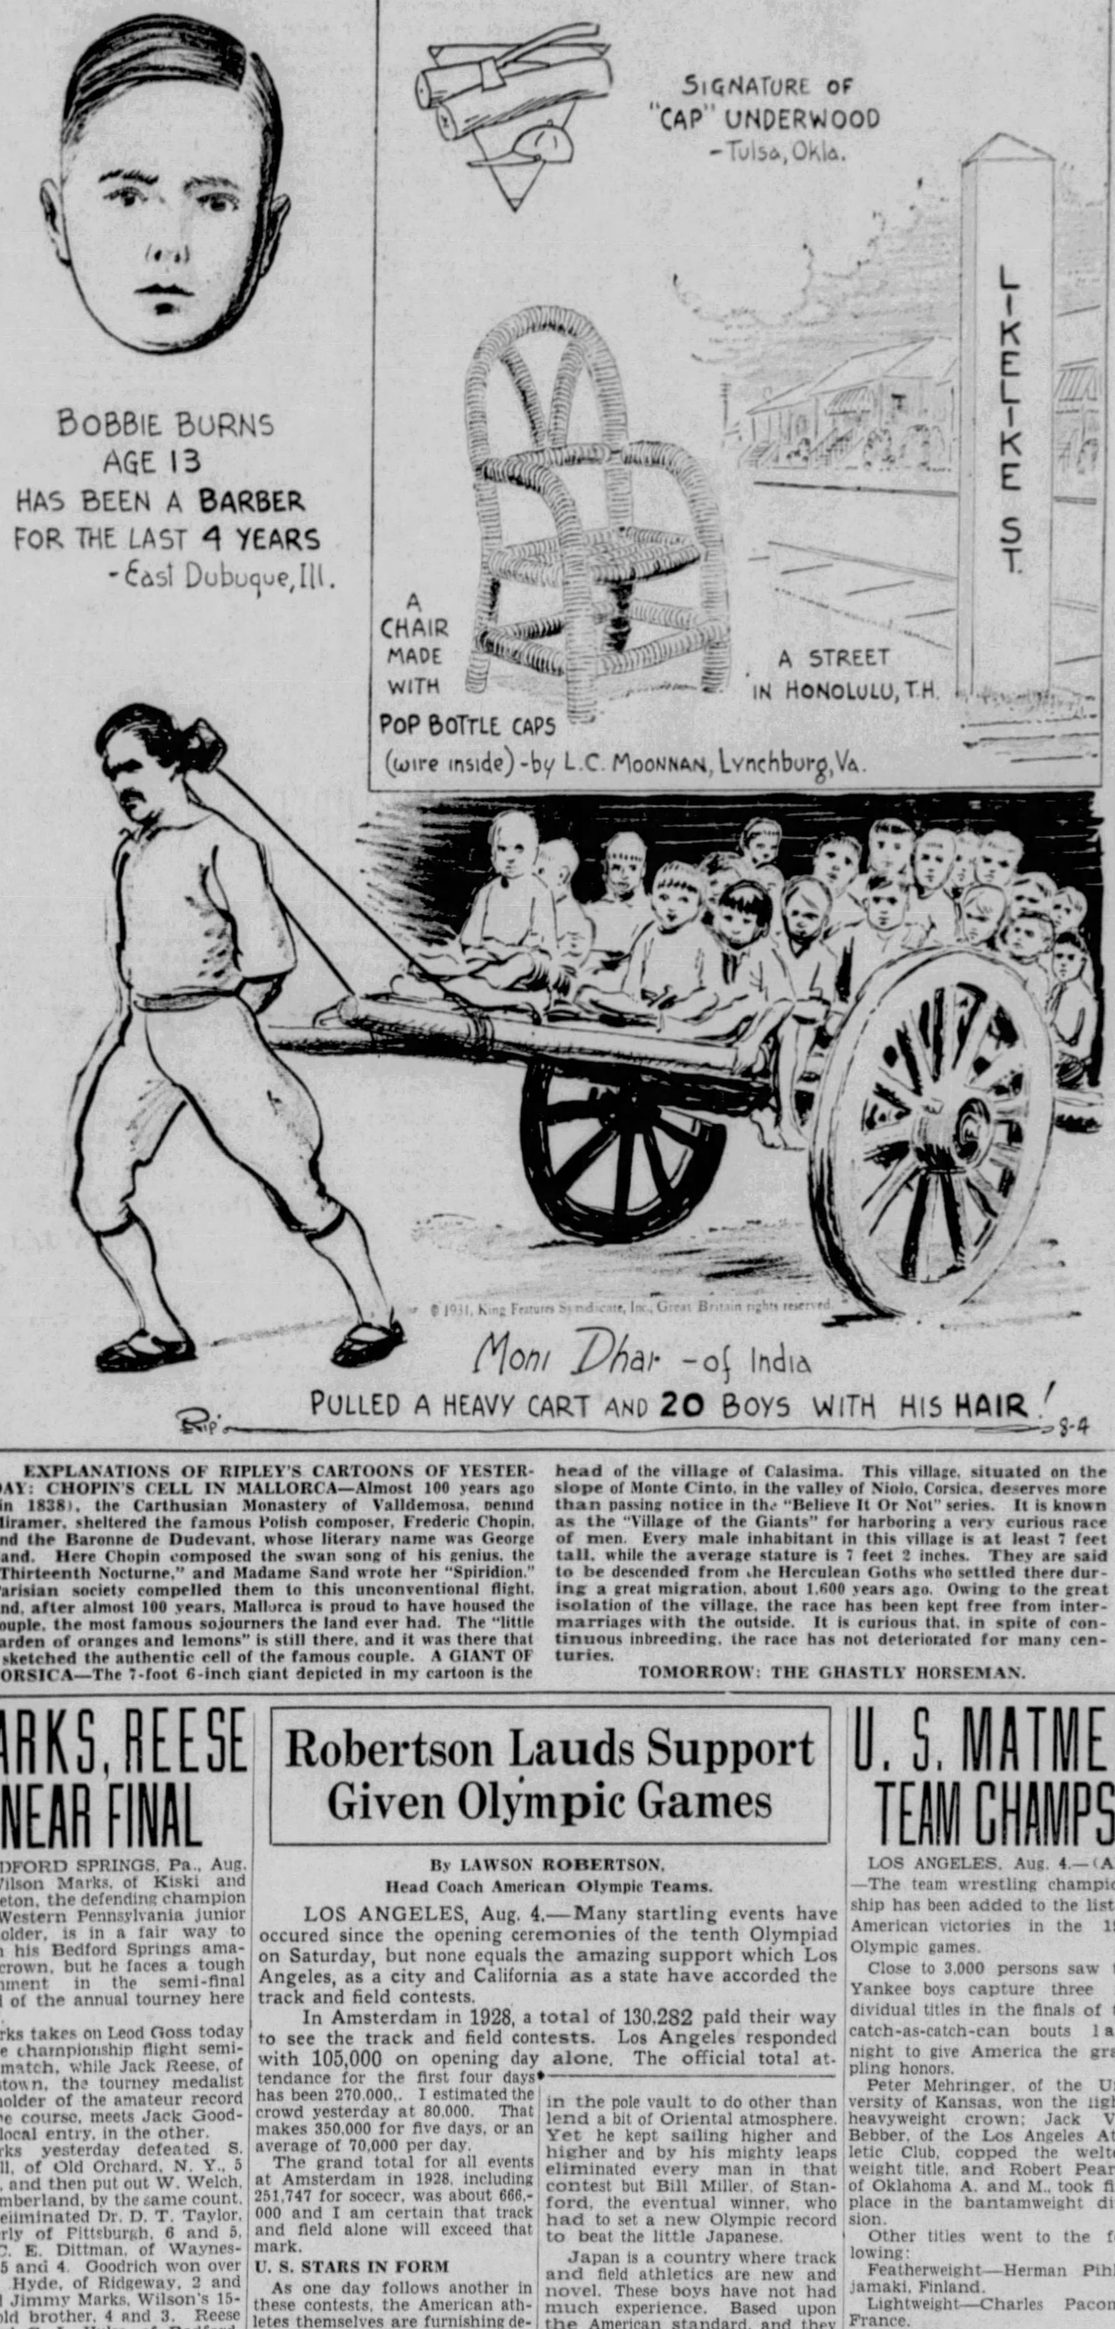
BELIEVE IT OR NOT — By RIPLEY

(Copr. by U. S. Patent Office)

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)



EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: CHOPIN'S CELL IN MALLORCA—Almost 100 years ago (in 1838), the Carthusian Monastery of Valldemosa, behind Miramer, sheltered the famous Polish composer, Frederic Chopin, and the Baronne de Dudevant, whose literary name was George Sand. Here Chopin composed the swan song of his genius, the "Thirteenth Nocturne," and Madame Sand wrote her "Spiridion." Parisian society compelled them to this unconventional flight, and, after almost 100 years, Mallorca is proud to have housed the couple, the most famous sojourners the land ever had. The "little garden of oranges and lemons" is still there, and it was there that I sketched the authentic cell of the famous couple. A GIANT OF CORSICA—The 7-foot 6-inch giant depicted in my cartoon is the head of the village of Calasima. This village, situated on the slope of Monte Cinto, in the valley of Niolo, Corsica, deserves more than passing notice in the "Believe It Or Not" series. It is known as the "Village of the Giants" for harboring a very curious race of men. Every male inhabitant in this village is at least 7 feet tall, while the average stature is 7 feet 2 inches. They are said to be descended from the Herculean Goths who settled there during a great migration, about 1,600 years ago. Owing to the great isolation of the village, the race has been kept free from intermarriages with the outside. It is curious that, in spite of continuous inbreeding, the race has not deteriorated for many centuries.

TOMORROW: THE GHASTLY HORSEMAN.

MARKS, REESE NEAR FINAL

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., Aug. 4.—Wilson Marks, of Kiski and Princeton, the defending champion and Western Pennsylvania junior titleholder, is in a fair way to retain his Bedford Springs amateur crown, but he faces a tough assignment in the semi-final round of the annual tourney here today.

Marks takes on Leod Goss today in one championship flight semi-final match, while Jack Reese, of Johnstown, the tourney medalist and holder of the amateur record for the course, meets Jack Goodrich, local entry, in the other.

Marks yesterday defeated S. Rossell, of Old Orchard, N. Y., 5 and 4, and then put out W. Welch, of Cumberland, by the same count. Goss eliminated Dr. D. T. Taylor, formerly of Pittsburgh, 6 and 5, and C. E. Dittman, of Waynesburg, 5 and 4. Goodrich won over W. H. Hyde, of Ridgeway, 2 and 1, and Jimmy Marks, Wilson's 15-year-old brother, 4 and 3. Reese checked C. L. Hulse, of Bedford, 6 and 4, and then eliminated Fred Brand, Jr., of Penn State and the Highland Country Club, of Pittsburgh, 5 and 4.

MEDALIST DEFEATED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 4.—Tom Waggoner, tourney medalist, was defeated in the first round of match play in the Washington-Greene County golf championship tourney at the Monongahela Valley Country Club yesterday by R. B. Parker, of Pittsburgh, the defending champion, 5 and 4.

PATTERSON TO COACH

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—Emery Patterson, of South Brownsville, former Waynesburg College star, has been chosen athletic director at Mid-Pacific Institute, a private boarding school near Honolulu.

Robertson Lauds Support Given Olympic Games

By LAWSON ROBERTSON,
Head Coach American Olympic Teams.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—Many startling events have occured since the opening ceremonies of the tenth Olympiad on Saturday, but none equals the amazing support which Los Angeles, as a city and California as a state have accorded the track and field contests.

In Amsterdam in 1928, a total of 130,282 paid their way to see the track and field contests. Los Angeles responded with 105,000 on opening day alone. The official total attendance for the first four days has been 270,000,. I estimated the crowd yesterday at 80,000. That makes 350,000 for five days, or an average of 70,000 per day.

The grand total for all events at Amsterdam in 1928, including 251,747 for socecr, was about 666,000 and I am certain that track and field alone will exceed that mark.

U. S. STARS IN FORM

As one day follows another in these contests, the American athletes themselves are furnishing denial of the absurd charges made a week or 10 days ago that they had gone stale, were woefully out of condition and that this would lessen their chances.

So far not one of our men has displayed anything but perfect form.

Each and every contestant has run his true race or performed to up to expectancy in the field. Our boys have upheld splendidly the supremacy of the United States in contests so far decided and I do not anticipate any upsets.

Of the many brilliant performances turned in here yesterday I do not think that any eclipsed that of S. Nishida, of Japan. This small and frail-looking youngster wasn't supposed to be in the pole vault to do other than lend a bit of Oriental atmosphere. Yet he kept sailing higher and higher and by his mighty leaps eliminated every man in that contest but Bill Miller, of Stanford, the eventual winner, who had to set a new Olympic record to beat the little Japanese.

Japan is a country where track and field athletics are new and novel. These boys have not had much experience. Based upon the American standard, and they haven't had the concentrated tutoring of our boys. Yet Nishida defeated all but one of the group of the greatest vaulters in the world.

ANDERSON BRILLIANT

John Anderson, of Cornell, who won the discus, long ago served notice that he was a potential world champion. He has been improving tremendously with each new effort and I am sure that he will soon crack the existing world record.

Eddie Tolan's victory in the 200-meters final was a great tribute to his courage and his gameness, as well as his keen competitive brain. We have had no

U. S. MATMEN TEAM CHAMPS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The team wrestling championship has been added to the list of American victories in the 1932 Olympic games.

Close to 3,000 persons saw the Yankee boys capture three individual titles in the finals of the catch-as-catch-can bouts last night to give America the grappling honors.

Peter Mehringer, of the University of Kansas, won the light-heavyweight crown; Jack Van Bebber, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, copped the welterweight title, and Robert Pearce, of Oklahoma A. and M., took first place in the bantamweight division.

Lightweight—Charles Pacome, France.

Fight Results

BUCS TO FIND CAREY'S TEAM TOUGH FOE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—While few followers of baseball are picking the Dodgers to win the flag this year, there is a strong tone to the effect that Max Carey's outfit will be very troublesome for the remainder of the race.

The recent spurt of the Flatbush crew is a sample of their style. Moreover, the Dodgers are apt to improve under the leadership of Carey, who believes in tricks and smart play in general. If Scoops is given full sway in his movements it is highly probable he will have the Dodgers firmly established in the first division in another year. Carey has a chance to win a money berth this year and he and his players appear to be making the best of their opportunities.

UNCERTAIN IN SPOTS

The Dodgers are not of the championship caliber in their present makeup. Their pilot doubtless realizes he must get a couple of high-grade pitchers, and he is aware of the fact that his infield and outfield will stand improvement. But these problems are big; it isn't likely he will solve them in the present campaign.

The performances of Hack Wilson is quite a feather in the cap of the new pilot of the Brooklyn team. Wilson was an outstanding star under Joe McCarthy in Chicago, but when Rogers Hornsby took over the Cub reins Hack had a terrible time. Wilson laid most of his woes at Hornsby's door. And now that Hornsby has been removed from the leadership of the Bruins there are many who will feel that Hack knew what he was talking about.

HACK'S STRIDE PLEASES

Be that as it may, Wilson is back in a fast stride again. Hack is batting hard and timely and his home-run output is entirely satisfactory to his new employers.

The Pirates and Dodgers are slated to rest tomorrow. They will wind up their series Saturday with a single game. The Buccos will head for Boston Saturday night. Gibson's league leaders will take on the Braves in a doubleheader on Sunday.

HAMMER, WOLFE GAIN FINAL

JEANNETTE, Pa., Aug. 4.—Gus Wolfe, Jeannette, won the right to meet Theodore Hammer, of Greensburg, in the finals of the Westmoreland County tennis tourney yesterday by defeating Wilbur Hockensmith, of Irwin, 6-1 and 6-3. The winner of the Theodore Hammer-Gus Wolfe match will meet Edgar (Tack) Hammer, of Greensburg, county singles champion for the past several years.

Only one doubles match was played yesterday, Anderson and Rush, of Scottdale, defeating Carson and Merrill, of Greensburg, 6-2 and 6-3.

Fonseca to Stay As Chisox Manager

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—In the midst of the noise caused by the dismissal of Rogers Hornsby as pilot of the Cubs, owner J. Louis Comiskey has come forward with the announcement that Lew Fonseca would continue as manager of the White Sox in 1933.

ENGLISH CAPTAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Elwood English, star shortstop, has been named captain of the Chicago Cubs, succeeding Charley Grimm, who replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—I read where Connie Mack has conceded the 1932 pennant to the Yanks. Connie is getting generous in his old age. I don't concede the flag to Joe McCarthy any more than I figure Norman Thomas will snatch the November election. In fact, I can remember, a few years ago when the Yankees had a 14-game lead around this time and all the other clubs were whirling along like tortoises. The Yanks looked the situation over and decided to become Belgian hares. When they woke up their lead was chiseled to a couple of games and they had to send out for crutches and a shot of heroin to stagger in under the wire.

PATTERSON FINALIST IN SOUTH PARK GOLF TOURNEY

MARTIN LOSES IN 19-HOLE BATTLE

By TOM BIRKS

E. W. Patterson entered the final round of the South County Park golf championship today when he defeated T. W. Martin in the first semi-final match, 1 up in 19 holes.

His opponent in the final round will be determined late this afternoon when Ed Replogle engages Mike Evans in the other semi-final duel.

The finalists will meet later in the day to determine South Park's first golf champion. The South Park summary:

FIRST SIXTEEN

E. W. Patterson defeated T. W. Martin, 1 up (19 holes).

SECOND SIXTEEN

W. Hartsell defeated E. Maloney, 2 up.
P. W. Hurley defeated R. Johns, 1 up (20 holes).

THIRD SIXTEEN

E. Walsh defeated L. E. Quinn, 2 and 1.
J. Christy defeated Abbott, 4 and 2.

The semi-finals of the North Park championship also are being played today with the final round slated for tomorrow. The semi-finalists are Steve Borovich, Alex Schoeski, Maj. W. L. Longstaff and the survivor of the Bernie McFarland-J. B. Swain match.

MARTIN SURPRISES

Martin pulled the big surprise of the South Park tourney yesterday when he upset E. S. Williams, 4 and 3, and H. M. Long, the medalist, by the same count. Patterson gained the semi-finals by virtue of a defeat victory over C. J. McKinnon and a 3-and-2 triumph over C. Hoffman. Replogle eliminated J. E. Dunn, 1 up.

In the North Park play, Schoeaki eliminated Charley Dunn and C. K. Sauers by identical scores of 3 and 2. Maj. Longstaff beat George Chubb, Jr., 4 and 3, while Swain advanced when Walt Malloy defaulted.

ELDRED IN MATCH

Many district golfers are planning to make the trip to the Summit Club at Uniontown Sunday to watch Vince Eldred in action. Manager Leo Heyn has lined up one of the classiest foursomes in golf at the present time for the exhibition. Hagan, champion of the Uniontown Country Club, will play with the state champion, and Billy Marks, junior champion, will team up with Sam Parks, Jr., professional at Summit.

Tom Barr, of Schenley, finally took down the Western Pennsylvania southpaw golf crown yesterday when he defeated Jack Freund, Jr., of Westmoreland, in their second playoff match. Barr carded a 77 yesterday to a 91 for Freund over the Shannopin links.

In the southpaw title tourney two weeks ago, the pair tied at 77. They sought to gain a decision last Saturday, but were deadlocked again at 90. Yesterday Barr took a two-stroke lead on the first nine and increased it as Freund's game went to pieces coming home.

The men's city golf championship, carded at Schenley Park for August 9 to 11, has been postponed until September 7 to 10.

Local Woman Wins In Putting Contest

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lois Cochran Rogers, of the Parkersburg Country Club, shot an 89 yesterday to win the Tri-State Invitation Golf tournament at the Steubenville Country Club.

Mrs. Harry Hood, of the Chartiers Heights Club, Pittsburgh, won the putting contest.

RALPH METCALFE EDDIE TOLAN

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—In the late afternoon shadow of the gigantic Olympic Stadium, two black youths—one short and stocky, the other tall and lithe—strolled from the American dressing room.

The short one, Eddie Tolan, had just been crowned the Olympic sprint king—the "fastest human" in Olympic history. The tall one was Ralph Metcalfe, his sensational teammate. They were in animated conversation—Tolan probably telling the "inside" of his record-breaking double sprint wins—or maybe how it feels to be a champion. The reporter lent an eager ear.

"I tell you I've got to get one now," Tolan insisted. "I can't go another day without a haircut."

EDDIE'S LAST RACE

However, the champion turned his conversation to his great 200-meter victory—the last race he'll run—a new Olympic mark and the fastest time ever turned in by man for that distance around a curve. And here's how he did it.

"I know the real meaning of eternity and space without end," Tolan smiled. "Eternity is the time it took me to run that 200 meters, and unlimited space is between the end of that curve, up that long stretch, to the tape. And I'm through now. I'm hanging up the old spikes.

"At the start, because I was starting on the inside one of the staggered lanes, I could see Metcalfe next to me and George Simpson next to him. I caught up with Simpson on the curve and with Metcalfe just coming off it. Metcalfe faded back suddenly—"

TORTURED BY FEARS

"Yeh, it looked like I stopped to let you go by," Metcalfe broke in. "Boy, you were certainly stepping."

"Well," Tolan continued, "I thought Met had slowed up for a gather and, all down that stretch, which I thought would never end, I was tortured by the vision of him suddenly flashing ahead of me. I thought each stride he'd pop into my view.

"And, to add to my agony, I could feel Simpson creeping up. If I could only get to that tape, I thought. But it seemed that my legs were getting lead weights on them and the string was getting farther away. I just threw everything I had into each stride with a prayer that it was enough. Then, suddenly, it was all over. And was I glad?

"It was the hardest race I ever ran, as I was very tired."

"Me, too," cut in Metcalfe, the younger and more emotional of America's black aces "I was tired, yes, sir. These old legs just wouldn't go any faster"

TOLAN TO BE DOCTOR

Metcalfe, the early-season sensation, thought he had trained too long.

"I've been at it since last November," he said, "and I've now discovered that's too long."

From tracks and sprinting glory, Tolan visions a shingle in Detroit, his home, bearing the inscription "Dr. Edward Tolan." He hasn't decided whether "M. D." or "Dentist" should follow.

"I'll coach for awhile," he said, "and then, if I can get enough money together, I'll study either dentistry or medicine."

A pathetic touch to the day was furnished by Metcalfe's mother. A car, bearing the two runners, stopped in front of the house where she is visiting here. Metcalfe stepped out first.

SCENE WITH MOTHER

"I'm proud of you, son," the dusky woman said simply, and, taking Tolan in her arms, she whispered:

"Eddie, I congratulate you. You're wonderful. I'm proud of you, too."

"I'm almost sorry I won, when I see her," he said. "I wish she could have seen Met win."

He slowly followed them and suddenly chuckled.

"I'm just thinking," he explained, "of those fellows in Salt Lake City, where I went through the ninth grade, who wouldn't let me run on the school team because I was too slow. And the funny part is, I was just that slow—then."

JIM BELMONT BATTLES GOOSBY

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Jimmy Belmont vs. Frankie Goosby, 10 rounds; Willie Davies vs. Nat Litfin, 8 rounds, and Max Elling vs. Joey Speigal and Paul Monar vs. Johnny Woods, 6 rounds each, Greenlee Field.

Amateur bouts, Borough Hall, Avalon.

Jimmy McLarnin vs. Lou Brouillard, 10 rounds; Louis (Kid) Kaplan vs. Frankie Petrolle, Leo Larriver vs. Ben Jeby and Joey Costa vs. Lew Kersch, 8 rounds each, Yankee Stadium, New York.

Kid Chocolate vs. Eddie Shea (for world junior-lightweight title), 10 rounds, and Angel Chiille vs. Willie Oster and Hymie Wiseman vs. Freddie Miller, 8 rounds each, Stadium, Chicago.

It will be a battle of welterweight punchers when Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, goes to the post against Frankie Goosby, Cleveland Negro, in the 10-round main bout at Greenlee Field tonight. Belmont's punching prowess is well known to the fans, while the clever Goosby turned in a neat job in knocking out Lee Sala in two rounds in last week's show in the same arena. A knockout either way tonight will not come in the nature of a surprise.

Willie Davies, of Charlerol, former contender for the world flyweight title, takes on Nat Litfin, of the Hill, recently returned from California, in the eight-round semi-final and there will be two six-round bouts, with Joey Speigal, Uniontown's southpaw welterweight, meeting Max Elling, the Kingfish of the Hill district, and Paul Monar, Homestead's fine bantamweight boxer, quitting the amateur ranks to turn professional against Johnny Woods, a former Golden Gloves champion, of Cleveland. The show is scheduled to get under way at 8:45 o'clock.

and shouting. Great Britain's game and gallant pedestrian, Thomas William Green, hoofed his way to victory in the 50,000 meter walk. He had to wait until today, however, to step up on the Olympic pedestrial and hear "God Save the King" played in honor of his achievement.

Today, too, Finland and Japan may take their turn in the spotlight, with favorites in the javelin and triple jump, while Americans have their eyes focused on the chances of Pen Hallowell, Glenn Cunningham and Frank Crowley in the classic 1,500-meter final, feature of this afternoon's program.

Meanwhile, and for the next four years, the United States can bask in the outstanding achievement of its "Star Spangled Day"—the triumph of Tolan.

The dramatic story of the little Negro's rise to the world sprinting heights overshadows the record-breaking chapters that have made these Olympic games the dizziest whirl of all time.

TOLAN MAKES COMEBACK

Tolan couldn't make the American team four years ago. Like many another youth, he was hard pressed for funds this year and needed the aid of a friend to get to California by automobile for the final American tryouts. At Palo Alto, Tolan twice trailed the great Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette, to the tape in the combined race for places on the American team as well as national championships.

The experts thought Metcalfe won from Tolan Monday in the 100-meter Olympic final, and it took the official motion pictures to convince them that Tolan was victorious by the shadowy margin of two inches in world record time.

They said Metcalfe would run away from little Eddie in the 200, because he was bigger and stronger, but Tolan came back to win hands down. He beat George Simpson, the third American sprint ace, by a good two yards in the Olympic record time of 21.2 seconds, while Metcalfe came in third, handicapped by a poor start and ragged work on the turn.

Two Olympic championships and two Olympic records ought to be enough to prove the greatness of Tolan's comeback. He maintains, too, one of the most unique traditions of American track history. He is the third American sprinter to take the Olympic double crown. Archie Hahn in 1904 and Ralph Craig in 1912 being the others. All three came from the University of Michigan.

MILLER WINS VAULT

If there was any disappointment for the huge crowd in the stadium it was the failure of the Southern California favorite, Bill Graber, to come through in the pole vault. Graber had hoisted himself to the world record height of 14 feet 4 3/8 inches in the final tryouts. He did no better than 13 feet 7 1/4 inches yesterday and finished fourth, beaten by his teammate, George Jefferson, as well as by Miller and Nishida, both of whom did better than ever before.

Saling's triumph in the 110-meter hurdles was not surprising, in view of his world record equaling performance of 14.4 in the semi-finals. The Iowan, however, came on to win the final in 14.6 mainly on the perfection of his form, after his rival American Percy Beard, tripped over the next to the last hurdle and lost a good lead.

Chilly Sauce

By Charles J. Doyle

When Joe McCarthy heard the news about his once beloved Cubs, his emotions must have experienced two distinctive sensations. The removal of Rogers Hornsby naturally caused Marse Joe to feel that the Chicago directors had hit into a bad triple play when they pushed McCarthy out of the National League spotlight, and Joe probably beamed all over when he learned that his former first lieutenant—Lefty Grimm—was to be the new boss of the Bruins.

The affection between McCarthy and Grimm is one of the fine things of baseball. Perhaps it might be timely to state that Hack Wilson and other Bears also held the same love for the able leader who was given the gate to make room for the hard-hitting, two-fisted but tactless Texan.

It would be highly interesting were one able to listen in on the inside stuff that has passed between the Cub officers and the team's managers since the days of Bill Killefer and the ascendency of the late William Wrigley into the Chicago picture. McCarthy, it seems, inherited a galaxy of bad boys who had no right fiddling around the cellar position from the standpoint of baseball skill.

Gambling and liquor were tossed out the window by McCarthy when he took over the wreck and ruin, and in one year Joe transformed the team into a pennant contender. Using rare leadership, McCarthy eventually copped the National League pennant. Unfortunately, he used some questionable strategy in the world series with the Athletics, but that is a matter quite apart from his genius as a leader.

McCarthy, I feel, did not relish the arrival of Hornsby on the scene. He held no dislike for the great hitter, but it is probable that President Veeck or Owner Wrigley had more to do with the transaction that sent Hornsby from Boston to Chicago. In any event a coldness developed between McCarthy and Veeck while Hornsby and Bill seemed to be quite fond of each other. And now Veeck maneuvers The Rajah out and the colorful Grimm, who has more of the McCarthy persuasive system, will handle the reins of leadership.

Nobody in baseball knows more or better baseball than Rogers Hornsby in my opinion. But Rogers was not deeply concerned as to the proper methods of handling different species of humanity. Grimm knows human nature well. Understanding men is at least twice as important as comprehending baseball in directing a club.

The worst Pirate fans wish for Grimm is that he is as successful as that other great first-base playing-manager of the Cubs of pleasant memory—Frank Chance.

Don Hurst Back In Phils' Lineup

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—His headache all gone, Don Hurst, star first baseman of the Phillies, National League baseball club, who was hit with a pitched ball in Monday's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, expects to get back in the lineup in today's game with the Chicago Cubs, according to Burt Shotton, the Phillies' manager.

Hurst, National League batting leader, appeared ready to resume his position, Shotton said, and would be on first today.

Hafey Set to Play For Redlegs Today

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Chick Hafey, the Cincinnati Reds' slugging outfielder, reported to Manager Dan Howley here yesterday and will be in the lineup today in the series opener with the Boston Braves.

Although Hafey was ordered to remain idle for the rest of the season, he insisted he was in condition to play. He was stricken with influenza early in the season.

SEEDED PARKS RACQUET STARS NEAR FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Men's quarter-final and women's semi-final play tops this afternoon's program of contesting in the third annual Pittsburgh Public Parks net championships, in progress since Monday on the clay courts of Frick Park. It is the aim of tourney officials to push the masculine hostilities into the penultimate bracket by the dinner hour and to narrow the feminine field to no more than three by nightfall.

Despite morning rains and threat of additional downpour throughout the afternoon, yesterday's bill went through according to schedule. Favorites in both divisions of competition breezed ahead handsomely, with exception of Alex Blumberger, former Pitt performer, who met straight-set reversal at the hands of Irwin Beck, 6-4, 6-4.

BRODA ADVANCES

Frank Broida, defending the municipal crown, and with it the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph flagon symbolic thereof, eliminated Slim Stillwagon, Duke varsity product, 6-3, 6-4, to enter the bracket of eight, while Harry Wald, Panther luminary, seeded second, outstroked Eldred Shelton, Frick contender, 6-0, 6-1. Three exceptionally hard-hitting shotsmiths—Chuck Maits, of Penn; Milton King, ex-Kiski satellite, and Al McCabe, Wooster College ace—likewise hustled ahead. Maits nosed out Martin Grumet, dogged lad from out Swissvale way, 6-4, 6-3, as McCabe overwhelmed A. M. Frauenheim, Mt. Washington hope, 6-1, 6-1. King grabbed off a default from Ed Brown.

In the lone second round tussle yesterday, Sam McCorkle, North Side driver, gleaned narrow margin of triumph over the West View chopster, Ed Plunkett, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. With all other survivors advanced to the quarter-final stanza, McCorkle and George Sobel, Braddock star, meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to determine who shall encounter Wald in test to enter the semi-finals at 3:30. Meanwhile, Broida battles King, Beck takes on Al Lazar and McCabe tangles with Maits.

MRS. ARTZBERGER VICTOR

Mrs. Jean Artzberger, captor of Parks women's honors in 1930 and 1931, paced the fair group into the semi-finals with love-set decision over Bety McAdams, home park entrant. Ruth Staiger, Riverview slicer, kept even with the premiere by downing Marjorie Artz of West Park, 6-3, 6-0, in session one and following up with 6-3, 6-1 verdict at expense of Letitia Schmidt, Schenley girl and 1930 runner-up, 6-3, 6-1.

Mrs. Helene Kauffeld, South Hills newcomer, fought hard to rally for 2-6, 6-0, 10-8 win over Mary Madden in the upper quarter-finals. Mrs. Artzberger scrimmages with Miss Staiger in this afternoon's feminine feature. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Second round, lower half—S. A. McCorkle defeated Edward J. Plunkett, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Third round, upper half—Frank Broida defeated Bernard Stillwagon, 6-3, 6-4; Milton King won from Edward Brown by default; Irwin Beck defeated Alex Blumberger, 6-4, 6-4.

Lower half—Harry Wald defeated Eldred Shelton, 6-0, 6-1; Charles B. Maits, Jr., defeated Martin Grumet, 6-4, 6-3; Alfred McCabe defeated A. M. Frauenheim, 6-1, 6-1.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Second round, upper half—Mrs. Helene Kauffeld defeated Mary Madden, 2-6, 6-0, 10-8.

State Boxing Board Renews N. Y. Pact

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—With the resignation of John C. Morlock only 24 hours old, the State Athletic Commission has announced appointment of Patrick J. McKewen, 45, of the commission's secretaryship.

McKewen, whose new position carried a salary of $3,000, is a World War veteran, and was chief of Philadelphia county detectives from 1928 to early this year.

The comission adopted a resolution renewing its working agreement with the New York State Athletic Commission which has been void since June, 1930.

So far this season, the Minneapolis first baseman has exploded a home run for every third hit. He has had 111 safe blows and 36 of them have gone for joy rides over American Association fences.

COACH LAUDS U. S. SUPPORT

sprinters who know more about all the angles of that intricate form of sport and it was Tolan's knowledge, plus his other assets, that won for him yesterday. He knew just when to turn on the "heat" and when he did so the race was over, so far as his competitors were concerned.

The 110-meters hurdles result was no surprise. It seemed at the outset that we would take first, second and third place. We did. Saling first, Beard second, Keller third. That's the way they ran. Saling won because his was the cleanest exhibition. Beard and Keller bumped over a pair of hurdles and this retarded their progress and cinched victory for the flying Saling.

The 1,500 meters race, which so many had conceded elsewhere, may become the property of the U. S. A. along with our other championships. We qualified with Pen Hallowell, Bill Cunningham and Frank Crowley and although I realize that our competition will be considerable, especially from the Finns, our trio has speed, courage and stamina and the boys will be in the final resolved to give all they have to bring this much valued honor to the U. S. A.

LUTTRELL WINS TITLE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—Playing in the same sensational manner which gave him the honor in 1928, James Luttrell wears the Greensburg Country Club golf crown after a 3-and-2 victory over R. W. Smith, Jr., Western Pennsylvania senior champion, in the final match of the tourney yesterday.

TYPOS TO PLAY IN BASEBALL TOURNEY

Local members of the Union Printers' International Baseball and Golf League will leave Sunday for St. Paul to compete in the annual twenty-first tournaments to be staged in that city starting Thursday of next week and continuing until August 17.

William F. McCann is in charge of the baseball squad, and George Brenner will direct the golf team. Thirteen cities from the United States and Canada will compete for the titles. The first tournament was held in 1908.

The Garry Herrmann trophy, donated by the former owner of the Cincinnati Reds, goes to the winner in the baseball tournament, Washington now has possession of the trophy.

Neffco Boy Shows Speed at Oval

Straight heat victories marked the weekly harness racing program of the Schenley Matinee Club at Schenley Oval yesterday afternoon, five events being run off on a muddy track.

Neffco Boy, driven by Robert Nicholson, trotted a half in 1:04 for the best effort of the day. John Hedgewood, with A. M. Leib handling the reins, won the first event in straight heats. Dave Shull drove Goldie A to a triumph in the third; Ed Wood was behind Allan Jr. in the fourth and Ray Drew rode back of J. H. M. in the fifth.

WILLS IN COMEBACK

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Harry Wills, the Negro heavyweight menace of a few years back, returns to the ring tonight in his initial comeback against Vinke Jackass, of New York, in the 10-round feature at the Fort Hamilton Army Reservation show.

STOCKS SLIDE AFTER SHARP UPSURGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The bull market in stocks rolled up further impressive advances in the stock market today, before the pressure of profit-taking became great enough to bring a substantial setback.

Price averages at the peak of the rally indicated an appreciation in quoted value since the lows of a few weeks ago of about 50 per cent, unprecedented in recent market history for a like period of time, so profit-taking was not surprising. Extreme gains of 2 to 6 points in many issues were about cut in half, as the list slipped off after the middle of the day.

Allied Chemical shot up about 6 points, then lost about half. A 4-point rise carried American Telephone across par, or about 30 points above the year's low, but it slipped off a couple of points from the top. United States Steel lost most of an extreme gain of more than 2. Standard of New Jersey rose 2 points to 33½, the highest price of 1932, before the afternoon sell off. Miscellaneous issues up 2 or 3 points at the top included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, du Pont, Drug, American Water Works, North American, Case, International Harvester, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Eastman, Westinghouse Electric and others.

The sweeping advance in shares since early July has surpassed even the expectations of the bulls, and has evidently been greatly facilitated by efforts of the bears to fight the rise. Many skeptical traders, reading second quarter earnings statements showing many prominent corporations running far into the red, were unable to foresee anything in the way of a sustained rally, regardless of the market's technical position. What took them off guard more than anything else, apparently, was the steady demand for American stocks which came from abroad, after the Lausanne agreement, and the end of the raid upon America's monetary gold stock. The market, therefore, has been pushed up by successive waves of short covering, almost from the start. Brokerage loan figures, nevertheless, have indicated a substantial amount of good buying for cash.

The recent phases of the advance have been helped by growing bullishness on commodities, notably wheat. A number of miscellaneous staples have been creeping higher. Today saw good gains in such items as rubber, lead, and in the Chicago market, butter and eggs. Copper was a little firmer, quoted ⅛ cent higher at 5⅜ cents a pound in the domestic market, which of course is still far below the average production cost. Petroleum and gasoline constitute one line that has returned to a level permitting producers and refiners to show profits once more, which accounts for the fact that Standard of New Jersey, and some other leading oil shares have been able to register new high levels for the year.

Around its peak levels of today, the market has recovered roughly half of its extreme loss of the latest phase of liquidation of the March-June period. Previous rebounds in the bear market have been halted at about this level on the way back, so chart readers will anxiously watch the trend over the next year or two to see if this recovery will be different.

DEBTS RETARD NEW FARM BUSINESS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The overhanging burden of existing debt limits enthusiasm in the farm areas over recent improvement in selected agricultural prices.

A businessman's analysis of the changing mood of the northwestern farmer is given in a message to this column from W. R. McCarthy, of the Capitol Elevator Company, Duluth, Minn. Queried concerning any evidences of renewed business activities in that territory since farm commodity prices rose above the late spring low levels, the executive declared:

Mr. Rukeyser

"I believe it is a little too early to show any results in our territory. The crop is just being harvested and the farmers are showing a decided tendency to hold their grain for better prices. There has been a large deterioration in our crop in the Northwest in the past three weeks and from a bumper prospect of July 1, we are now down to an average crop of small grains.

"While we have had an advance in wheat, this advance doesn't mean a profit to the farmers, but merely less loss. It is very possible that some grain would not have paid for the cost of harvesting and threshing, will now be threshed. There is, however, a much better feeling developing in our territory due to the combination of increases in commodity prices and stock market quotations. I do not believe that the territory is doing much new buying. Within a month, the territory will be covered with collectors from the farm implement people and these payments with the necessary repayments to the federal government on crop loans, will take about all the ready cash that will be available in our grain producing sections."

Forbes

Why Deplore Reappearance Of Good News

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHEN IS GOOD news bad news?

When it is overdone.

Students of security markets had become alarmed over the failure of prices to relapse after their long-sustained advance. A period of weakness, they proclaimed, would be healthier than further uninterrupted strength.

B. C. Forbes

Therefore, Tuesday's reaction in stocks, in bonds, in commodities, was welcomed even by the bulls, by the optimistic, by those anxious to see genuine recovery. Even so, it was interpreted as a good sign that dealings dwindled when prices began to weaken. This impelled the conclusion that there are now more people anxious to buy during a rise than there are anxious to sell when quotations recede.

Since prices were carried so absurdly far down, why should uneasiness be felt when recovery continues longer and goes farther than is considered normal? Doesn't ultra-violent action in one direction tend to inspire correspondingly pronounced action in the opposite direction?

In my opinion, there would be little occasion for alarm were bonds and stocks to reach substantially better prices without experiencing a fresh spasm of nervousness. We have had so much of the unfavorable that we can well stand more than a little of the favorable.

WOULD IT NOT be more sensible for eastern railroads to accept financial assistance from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to consummate the officially approved consolidations than to borrow money to repair an excessive amount of rolling stock?

Funds could be spent advantageously to carry out the mergers at this time, whereas there is no pressing need for additional useable cars or locomotives. That the day will come when every serviceable car will be urgently needed, there is no room for doubt. But why not do first things first?

Proceed with the agreed-upon mergers!

Holding Company Receivers Asked

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Helen M. Fink, of New York City, has filed a receivership suit in Chancery Court against Utilities Public Service Company, of Columbus, O.

The complainant, who owns three five-year gold bonds due December 1, 1933, alleged that the corporation is insolvent and failed to pay on June 1 interest requirements on its bonds.

The corporation is a holding concern, controlling subsidiaries supplying telephone and water service to 168 communities in states of the Middle West and other states.

CHAPTER X.

Larry was having a hot argument over the telephone, as Lurline and Blondie listened from the bedroom.

"I'm here at Lurline's now," his voice carried plainly into the room, and I have a friend with me . . . you know, Pratt, big oil man from Oklahoma . . . No, Lurline has to go to the show . . . What? . . . Sure you can . . . come on, Dolores . . . oh, the devil with you, goodbye!" and he slammed up the receiver.

The girls busied themselves about the mirror as they heard him coming toward the bedroom.

"Where's that good-looking . . ." he asked as he came in the room.

"Dinner?" said Blondie in surprise. "I've had it."

"What's the idea?" said Lurline to Larry.

"I'm looking for a girl for Pratt. He wants to step out tonight."

"Don't you think you might consult me about plans?" said Lurline, now a little peeved.

"You're not going to call her. I'll call someone."

"Yes, you will," Larry replied skeptically.

Blondie had been watching Larry closely. How she came to say it, she never could tell.

"I could go if you wanted me too," and Blondie emphasized the "I."

BLONDIE COMPLIMENTED

"Well, that's great," said Larry, as if everything were settled. "Cute, isn't she?" to Lurline, who for the moment had lost her composure.

"Thank you, mister," smiled Blondie.

"Mister yourself!" came back Larry, and he gave Blondie's arm a little squeeze. As Blondie laughed, Larry said:

"Where have you been hiding?"

Lurline watched this by-play, her face growing darker every minute. Finally she turned to Larry and said firmly:

"Blondie has to leave, unfortunately . . ."

"Oh, no, she hasn't," Larry interrupted. "I'm going to talk her out of it—how about it?"

"I don't really have to go." There was no kidding in Blondie's voice now.

"You said you did," Lurline almost snapped out the words.

"I don't remember saying so . . ." and Blondie looked at Lurline questioningly.

"What's the idea, Lurline—are you kidding? She doesn't have to go, do you?" asked Larry.

"Well, if Lurline says I do—I do—I'd better go."

LARRY DEFENDS BLONDIE

"My friend?" Lurline asked icily.

"Oh, Lurline, what have I done?" and there was a quiver in Blondie's voice.

"You haven't done anything," said Larry, coming instantly to her defense.

"We've been chums since we were kids," declared Blondie. "What are you sore about, Lurline?"

"I'm not sore—you're absurd. You know perfectly well you promised your mother that you'd be home . . ."

"When?" Blondie stared at her with amazement.

"Well, you're the one that's rude." Blondie looked appealingly at Larry. There was something about the sympathy in his eyes that kept her tenement anger down. She felt much more ashamed than angry.

"Well, don't get fresh with me." Blondie suddenly blurted out. "Even if you have to . . ." Blondie commenced peeling off the fur coat and hat . . . "You don't have to make a fool out of me . . ." and she threw the garments at Lurline. Then she turned and ran out of the room, slamming the door to the main hallway behind her.

"Poor little kid," said Larry. "That's mean, that's downright mean . . ." and he suddenly started toward the door after Blondie.

RESENTS ACTION

"Larry, come here!" Lurline caught his arm.

"Why, no! I don't like that, let me go . . ." Larry jerked loose and dashed out of the door.

In the hall Larry saw Blondie waiting for the approaching elevator. As she saw him coming toward her, she turned and ran. Reaching another hallway, she ducked into that out of Larry's sight. He hurried after her, and found her standing partly concealed in a doorway. He went up to her, smiling broadly, and took hold of her arm. Blondie's lips quivered, and she fought back the tears.

"Come here, you."

"Let me go!"

"How about a smoke?"

"I don't smoke."

"Do you eat?"

Synopsis

Blondie McClune and Lottie Callahan, friends since childhood, work in the same store. After work one evening, Lottie says she has a date and asks Blondie to join her. Blondie disapproves. Two men wait for them outside the building. When one becomes too familiar with her, Blondie slaps his face and goes home alone, to the poor section of the city. Later the two girls argue about the date and it ends in a rough and tumble fight. Blondie's dress is torn and she decides to get a new one. Looking for some money she had saved, she discovers that somebody has taken it. She greets her ailing dad when he arrives home and learns that he has lost his job. Lottie leaves home in quest of a career. After a few months, under the name of Lurline Cavendish, she becomes the newest sensation of the Follies. She visits the McClunes, but is anxious to get away from the place she once called her home. Blondie is self-conscious when she meets Larry Belmont, a young broker.

Now Go On

"Where have you been hiding," Larry asked.

"Yes."

"Very well. I'll buy you a bite of food—the wing of a bird and a pint . . ."

"Go away!" Blondie was calmer now, and started toward the elevator.

"How are you going to get home?" asked Larry, catching up with her. "Come back to Lurline's, she's all right. I want you to — just to please me. I like you! Come out with me this evening."

"Where to?" Blondie was very much interested now, and Larry's voice was so friendly.

"Twenty-five . . . Arthur's and Charlie's . . . The Dark Hole . . . The Red Hat . . . any speakeasy you like."

RETURN TO APARTMENT

"Come on back," Larry pleaded.

Blondie stopped walking and started thinking. She liked Larry—liked him more every minute she was with him. Suddenly she said:

"What theater?" Blondie was plainly not used to so many invitations in so short a time.

"Anywhere you like," said Larry, as they started down the main hall.

"Good — you shall! . . . the Follies."

As they reached Lurline's door, Blondie failed to notice that Larry let himself in with a key. They walked across the hallway toward the glass doors of the living room. As they entered, they could hear Lurline's voice saying:

"I adore yachts. Do you know Monte Bone's craft? I forget how many tons, but a veritable palace on the sea."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Ann Helfgott, "Official Junior Reporter" of the Enright Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, left last week for a vacation in the country and in her place Manager "Bill" Zeilor appointed her "pal," Margaret L. Hughes, to take her place.

"Long names for "long people," and here is a really fitting name: Mary Long is unusually tall for her age, 4 feet 11 inches, and only 12 years of age. Her favorite pastime is eating chocolate suckers and soda crackers.

VISITOR ENROLLED

When Minnie Pattinson left home the Pattinson family had to have someone around to take her place. Accordingly, Irene Morehead—no relation to Natalie of the movies—is spending her vacation in East Liberty at the Pattinson home and she attended her first Junior Komic Club meeting Saturday and enrolled in the club.

All the members are excited about the movie that will be at the Enright this week. It's "The Doomed Battalion." One little fellow, who's parents saw it downtown last week, said that he was going to bring his "galloshes and ear muffs" because he heard that it was taken when the temperature was 15 below zero. And he doesn't want to be cold.

Not bragging, but your acting "Official Reporter" knows many celebrated stage folks and knew Mary Eaton, when the famous Mary used to visit her mother's dancing studio to take her daily dancing lessons.

CONTEST ARRANGED

The Enright's genial assistant manager, William Cooper Powelson, is an accomplished artist on the harmonica—any kind—and he has offered his services as instructor for those who will enter next week's contest. Judging from the noise during the meeting today it will be some contest.

Ann Helfgott, before she left on her vacation, instructed me to compile a list of games the members like. If you have any particular game tell me about it and we'll see if "Bill" Zeilor won't arrange for you to play it at one of the future meetings.

So long "kiddies," Ann will be back Monday, but I'll be seeing you all this Saturday and will send in another column next week.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

Belmar—James Smith, Rocco Gallento, Buddy Randall.

Enright—Rita Letwin, Mary Moody, Mary Divine.

Rowland—Mary Ida Markell, Jones Lenose.

South Hills—Billy Sykes, Billy Doerfler, Doris Spicuzza.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Few young folk understand the importance of dependability.

They think it does not matter if they do their best most of the time, that there should be a few occasions when they shirk responsibility.

Why be so unpleasantly particular to keep an appointment, anyway?

It is inconvenient to be bound down continually to work-a-day jobs or stupid lesson periods, when there is a chance of relieving the monotony of regular duties.

If something else comes up that seems preferable, just change your mind or be missing where you are expected.

And this careless attitude becomes a habit.

They go out into business and the social world with a warped idea of what it means to be depended upon.

Is it any wonder that the better jobs go to the young man or the young woman who is to be depended upon to carry out orders punctually and without fail?

Society and club associates appreciate dependability also.

APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sympathy and very cordial thanks to Dr. Miller for having successfully operated on me for acute perforated appendicitis with abscess, in the Unity Hospital.

The case was considered very dangerous by doctors who visited me.

Dr. Miller in the above case joined his skill in chirurgy, dailcacy and accuracy so that I didn't feel any consequence of the operation nor moral or physical effect, leaving me in perfect health.

THINK OF WHAT YOU'VE GOT

LONDON — Ambassador Mellon told the American Society last night that confidence will not be regained until "people think of what they've got and what they are, rather than what they have lost."

Think of what you've got, says Andy,
Then we'll all feel fine and dandy!
Just itemize, and soon, we hope,
You say in nineteen twenty-nine
You borrowed money? That's just fine!
The interest that you've got to pay
Is 8 per cent? Hip, hip, hooray!
And may we ask, what did you do
With the moneys loaned to you?
Took your banker's kind advice;
Got foreign bonds? You did? How nice!

Municipal Pruning

The Ax Is to Fall on Additional City Employes While The Mayor and Councilmen Go Unscathed.

The city is threatened with insolvency because of the decrease in tax payments.

The Mayor's finance committee has accordingly recommended the curtailment or abandonment of various municipal activities. The committee's program would cost 360 city employes their jobs and would deprive the people of such valuable services as those rendered by the Planning Bureau, the Bureau of Smoke Regulation and the Bureau for the Handicapped.

But it would permit a saving of $1,307,833, and needs must when the devil drives.

The emergency may require these sacrifices, but the wielding of the ax will come with ill grace from the Mayor and Council members while their own salaries remain undisturbed.

There are many ways in which the city can save money without impairing the municipal service. The wasteful contract with the South Pittsburgh Water Company should be abrogated. Electric light should be substituted for gas and gasoline illumination in streets where these antiquated methods are still used. There could be a saving in the use of motor vehicles. The city could rely on the county's property assessments instead of maintaining its own bureau of assessors.

While the program recommended by the Mayor's finance committee, an organization of businessmen headed by A. E. Braun, may be necessary to meet the emergency, the city authorities, looking farther ahead, should act to eliminate permanently the waste that has been draining the taxpayers and has brought Pittsburgh to the verge of a financial disaster.

Distinctive Auto Plates

The Discrimination Against Which Pinchot Protests Is Not Prevented by His Veto.

John Volpe's automobile bore license plate JV-8. This was pointed to at the time of his death as evidence of his political influence.

From Gov. Pinchot's office, however, came the statment that the addition of the figure 8 to the initials JV was evidence that the Governor had had nothing to do with the issuance of this plate, since the Governor's office controlled the distribution only of plates numbered from 1 to 1,000 and plates bearing letters unaccompanied by numbers.

We have called attention more than once to the undemocratic practice of giving low-numbered or initialed license plates to the Governor's friends, influential politicians and prominent persons. It is a deplorable practice, because its effect is to create the impression that persons whose cars bear these special plates are important persons—that is, persons who are entitled to special consideration from traffic policemen.

In the interest of a more democratic system, and to bring the specially lettered or numbered plates within the reach of the common people, the Legislature passed a bill authorizing their issuance to all applicants willing to pay an extra fee of from $2.50 to $5.

Gov. Pinchot vetoed the bill yesterday as "inexcusable discrimination."

But "inexcusable discrimination" will persist, notwithstanding the veto, if the Governor continues the practice of giving special plates to carefully selected citizens as a badge of distinction.

The 'Lame Duck' Action

The Legislature Has Done the Right Thing in Ratifying The Proposed Amendment.

The Legislature has acted with gratifying promptness on the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution to do away with "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

It is wrong that Congressmen who have been defeated at the polls should be permitted, in "lame duck" sessions, to represent constituencies that have repudiated them and to support measures that the people have rejected.

Allegheny Improvements

Extension of Navigation Will Bring Benefits to the Entire Pittsburgh District.

Slowly the improvement of the Allegheny River proceeds.

Locks and dams Nos. 9 and 10 probably will be completed within a year or two. They will make it possible for steamboats to go from Pittsburgh to East Brady, about 73 miles.

Residents of the upper Allegheny, enthusiastic over the prospect that with the extension of navigation the valley will experience an industrial development like that in the Monongahela Valley, are demanding that the government go further and connect the river with Lake Erie by a canal along the French Creek route.

Pittsburgh, long committed to a canal from the Ohio River, by way of the Beaver and Mahoning Rivers, to Lake Erie, is not likely to support the French Creek route.

But Pittsburgh will find it to its advantage to promote energetically the improvement of the Allegheny, without reference to its being linked with Lake Erie. For the Allegheny Valley is rich in natural resources which need only the cheap transportation that a navigable waterway will afford for their development.

The entire Pittsburgh district will benefit by the unlocking of these treasures of coal and iron and limestone.

It is to be hoped that it will not take as long to complete the job as was required for the improvement of the Ohio.

Hearst Papers Advocate:

2.—Adoption of 5 per cent sales tax and reduction in income taxes, releasing income to finance industry.

3.—Immediate modification of the Volstead Act, permitting light wines and beers, reviving industry and employment, providing government income, ending criminal racketeering and restoring American personal liberty.

Tear Gas

By Nelson Harding

Gas bombs suddenly exploding,
Spreading clouds of acrid vapor
In a time of peace and quiet,

Tactlessness, official blindness,
Woeful lack of understanding,
Bring tears of humiliation
And of grief for what has happened.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Lovers—And Ex-Lovers

Alas, for the fragility of these summer romances! Like poplar trees and morning glories, they are short-lived—like "the good," they die so young!

* * *

To a man, every little summer love affair is just another adventure; to a woman, it is a sort of keepsake—a little leaf in the Book of Memory.

* * *

There are some men who were BORN bachelors—born to be loved, but never to be married. The girl who dares to marry one of these will usually find him hopeless, as a husband. Marriage doesn't UNITE him to a woman, it merely ATTACHES him to her, in a casual sort of way.

A bigamist is merely an altruist, whose misguided enthusiasm has led him to shoulder the matrimonial responsibilities of a pair of bachelor-shirkers.

* * *

* * *

A man has it all figured out that, if the two women in his life could only be "friends," each would see how impossible it was for him to live without the other.

* * *

The scientist seem to have discovered everything, except some way to camouflage spinach, a cold shower and a wife, so that they will look like temptations.

In these days, almost any good French-gilt frame will outlast two or three marriage certificates.

* * *

"A woman is always exchanging one set of troubles for another set," says Reno-Ruth. "She detaches a spendthrift with holes in his pockets—and attaches a tightwad with glue in his pockets! She trades a 20-year-old for a 40-year-old—and finds that she still has an 'infant' on her hands!"

Isn't It So?

The best cloth may have a moth.

A sound mind in a sound body, grant us, O Lord!

Between two cowards, he has the advantage who first detects the other.

Seeth thou a man that is hasty in his words? There is more hope of a fool than of him.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A neatly dressed lady, with star-clear eyes and obvious culture, stopped me on East Forty-sixth street this morning, wondering if I might be interested in a spot remover she had discovered. She had no money to hire an office and was barred from canvassing in apartments and office buildings.

So she decided to accost people along the street, secure their orders and deliver purchases. She was unembarrassed. Five years ago she was graduated from Vassar. The family fortunes recently tumbled. Her plight is not at all exceptional, but typical of the times.

Everywhere are touching evidences of a city-wide humility. Housewives who used to send servants in the family limousines now walk forth with their baskets. The doorman of a Park avenue hotel is a graduate of Heidelberg and is invited to Social Register homes.

For many years, no matter the vicissitudes, it was the New York custom to "put up a front." The new credo is: "Be yourself." An ice-sheathed lady, who long affected a superiority, has become an aisle manager in a department store. "My trouble," she said, "was looking at the world through a lorgnette."

* * *

A grinning red-cap at a railroad terminal, submitting to two cuts in salary, recently took a third. "It's all right," he agreed. "Just so they don't begin charging me admission."

* * *

* * *

A "speak" on a rosily tinged edge of Times square, where Libby Holman and a high-flying crowd strove for a thump in the night-life decadence, is now known as "The Tony's," to distinguish it from the thousand other basement Tonys, where one pushes the bell and asks for Tony.

* * *

Most of the depression gags are high exaggerations, yet I think they have been of enormous value in tempering the winds. They have been wrung out by a national twist of a passing despair, and any nation that can laugh at itself will likely enter calm waters again. One of the truest summings up of Russia was made by a native, after a flight to Paris, when the revolution came. He said: "Our trouble has been we can never laugh at ourselves."

* * *

We who write have struggled as perhaps never before for a chortle among readers. In touching on such safety valves, we have felt, perhaps, we have added a wee bit in ironing out the sudden curls of life. One of my vague little day dreams has been of sitting in a street car or railroad train, covertly watching somebody reading my column, and to behold them suddenly explode in a wild fit of laughing. I have never been that fortunate, but it is a recurrent hope.

* * *

In his columning days on the sedate Evening Post, Christopher Morley once wrote. "We saw a man reading on a train, but couldn't see what. On his cheek there wavered a faint crease, a quiet, flitting smile that meant the writer, whoever he was, had reached him. That cheek muscle is what all writers are aiming at. It bespeaks a quiet appreciation of human ways. Perhaps that cheek muscle, and not the fabled pineal gland, is the true residence of the soul."

* * *

Morley is super-modest. A muscle twitch does not interest us the slightest. Our ache is for the thundering rumble of a good old-fashioned deep down belly laugh.

* * *

While puttering along with this column, I have been trying to think of the printed joke stirring me to the heartiest laugh. I believe it was one Earl Mauck, home town editor, showed me years ago in a print-shop trade paper. A breezy live wire at a saloon bar is finishing a funny story to a group of cadgers. One gizzard-lipped "bar fly," slapping him on the back in wide mouthed guffawing was gasping: "Har, har, har, I'll take another whisky!"

* * *

Then the late and lamented Grant Clarke's wheeze in a night club. A dissheveled stew, after a prolonged bat, dropped in a chair beside him. He was incredibly filthy and the effluvia was a bit gamey. After a silence Grant observed archly: "I gather you are still riding for the Whitney stables!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Dare to remember!

Dare to remember everything!

That takes nerve. Easy enough to remember the pleasant times in life, the successes you've achieved, the compliments you've received, the good deeds you've done—

BUT IT'S TOUGH TO REMEMBER THE OTHER TIMES—THE TIMES YOU'VE BLUNDERED, MADE A FOOL OF YOURSELF, TURNED YELLOW, DONE CHEAP AND SHAMEFUL AND CRUEL THINGS.

You don't want to remember things like that—things that humiliate and worry you. You want to escape from them. And so you have invented an elaborate tissue of alibis and excuses which you use even in your secret thoughts, to comfort your vanity or soothe your conscience.

But if you look at the bright side only, you'll learn nothing about yourself, or life, and as a consequence you'll continue to commit stupid, silly and vicious acts. For the cause of them will still be in you.

YOU'LL NEVER PREVENT MISTAKES IN THE FUTURE UNLESS YOU STUDY THE MISTAKES OF THE PAST.

Stop thinking of those past mistakes as blots on your record. As a matter of fact, a mistake is your greatest asset if you'll use it right.

YOU CAN LEARN MORE FROM ONE PAINFUL MISTAKE THAN YOU CAN FROM A THOUSAND PLEASANT SUCCESSES.

Dare to remember! Dare to remember everything! Dare to lift the curtain and face all the badness and madness and sadness that has come into your life.

Don't linger over it unnecessarily. Don't make a wallow of regret, nor a racket of self-pity; but take a good, honest look. Stop making alibis. Stop blaming the other fellow. Admit your own responsibility for the thing you have done. He, too, may have been somewhat responsible. BUT IF YOU'LL HANDLE YOUR OWN SHARE OF THE BLAME, YOU'LL HAVE YOUR HANDS FULL WITHOUT FUSSING OVER HIS.

Study why you did that thing of which you are ashamed. What secret weakness in your own nature tricked you into it? Does that same weakness still exist? If it does, you will surely make the same mistake again, in some other form, unless you find and fight the flaw which caused it.

Dare to remember, everything! And, as you remember, dare to be proud!

You took a risk? And got yourself into a mess? BE PROUD BECAUSE YOU HAD THE COURAGE TO TAKE THAT RISK. Make up your mind to use better sense next time; but still be proud of the courage that forced that past blunder.

You loved the wrong person? Put a nick in your reputation? BE PROUD THAT YOUR HEART WAS GREAT ENOUGH TO LOVE, EVEN THOUGH IT WAS UNWISELY. Be a better picker next time, but do not be ashamed.

BE ASHAMED ONLY OF THE TIMES WHEN YOU DUCKED LIFE AND TWO-TIMED YOURSELF BY YOUR OWN COWARDICE.

And even dare to remember those times—with healing scorn. A live life is bound to make mistakes. Even God seems to have made a few Himself! Yet He goes right on turning us out with magnificent nonchalance. No ..... offers of regret for Him! Survey your own past with the nonchalance of a God. See everything. Admit everything. AND THEN—GET GOING!

Text For Today

So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work.—Nehemiah, iv:6.

Beck on Bureaucracy; Politicians and Issues

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

I have just been reading a remarkable book which is both startling and immensely amusing. Whenever James M. Beck becomes interested enough in a subject to write a book about it, I always want to see the book because I know it will be important and brilliant.

This latest book, "Our Wonderland of Bureaucracy," is no exception. In some respects it is by far the most charming thing Beck has done. The manner in which we of America have permitted the spirit of bureaucracy and paternalism to dominate our lives and pick our pockets is so appalling that the author could think of it only as something absurd as Alice in Wonderland. The whimsical and satiric tone which pervades the pages gives the needed touch of levity to save them from tragic gloom. And no one can impart more charm to a printed page than Mr. Beck.

From time to time, some of the grotesqueries of our bureaucracy are mentioned in speech or editorial; but few Americans have the most remote conception of the extent to which it has been supplanting the fundamentals of our institutions. Mr. Beck, a life long student of government, who has participated prominently and brilliantly in both its executive and legislative branch, and who retains the old-fashioned ideas of the founders, has made an intensive study of what is being done to us. It is an appalling story; quite as incredible as the adventures of the immortal Alice, quite as amusing. He has told it with that fine literary flavor which is inseparable from both his books and his speeches.

Just now we are struggling with the problem of how to find enough sources of revenue to keep the governmental ship afloat. The taxation of the people has imposed an almost unbearable burden upon us. We are constantly assured that while this is just too bad the necessities of government make it inevitable. And nothing could be more discouraging to men who are wondering how they are going to meet the tax collector.

Here is a story from Beck which explains why our taxes are constantly mounting; and here we see how simple it is to bring down the governmental cost by getting rid of a vast amount of foolishness.

Every taxpayer in America should read this book.

Mr. Sanders, Republican national chairman, has been in New York planning the campaign. There is an old observation that some politicians can never take to heart—that politicians cannot sit down in a hotel room and determine what issues the people shall think and talk about during a campaign. Time and again it has been tried by both parties; and always it has failed.

But the press report of the plans of Mr. Sanders and his associates is almost past belief. This is that the depression and its problems shall not enter the campaign at all, and that the prohibition question shall be put and kept in the background.

These are just two outstanding topics which the popular mind could not put aside if it would. Everyone who is not thinking and talking about the depression is thinking and talking about prohibition. And the other way around. If ever there were two issues that could not be suppressed these are the depression and prohibition.

Nor do the present indications point to a quiet campaign beginning in October. On Saturday night Mr. Roosevelt, having made his acceptance speech weeks in advance of Mr. Hoover, who was nominated two weeks earlier, spoke to the nation over the radio; and soon he will speak at Sea Girt to the Jerseyites; and almost immediately after Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance, Mr. Roosevelt will speak at Columbus, Ohio. This evidently means a determination to wage an aggressive fight; and long before the time a Presidential campaign usually opens formally, the issues will be pretty clearly drawn.

But the conditions this year justify an unusual policy. Viewed from any point of view, it is one of the most important in the history of the country. Never has there been a graver crisis. That of 1860 involved a danger to the Union; this of 1932 involves a danger to our institutions, and our social system. It is not a time for politicians to be cagy; it is a time to be courageous.

And the aggressiveness of Mr. Roosevelt promises to force the issues into the open long enough in advance of the election to make it possible for the people intelligently to make up their minds as to where their interest lies.

ARE YOU A 'TWIN?'

By Winifred Black

Sue was talking about people the other day.

"I'll tell you," said Sue, "I don't like Siamese twins; do you?"

"Well," I murmured in polite surprise, "I don't know whether I like them or not. I never saw any."

Sue laughed. "Don't be so literal," she said. "I don't mean the kind you see in circuses, two people born with some sort of a queer muscle that holds them together every minute of all the time. I mean people that you know; sisters, for instance, like Clara and Kate. You never see Kate without Clara, and just try to say one word to Kate that Clara doesn't hear!

"Friends, too, like Bob and Joe—they're worse than twins. I always expect them to open their mouths and speak in concert, like some funny song and dance team, or something.

"You always know that whatever you say or do, or don't say or don't do, will be talked over by Bob and Joe, the minute your back is turned.

"There's my brother, Fred. You know what pals Fred and I always were. Now Fred's wife is an awfully nice girl. I'd like to like her, and I would like her if she'd let me; but she won't let me.

"She never permits me to speak one word to Fred without her being there to say, 'What?' 'Who?' 'Do I know them?' 'When did that happen?' or 'Oh, that must have been before I met you, Freddie dear.'

"And then 'Freddie dear' has to look at his Siamese twin and say, 'If it was, I don't remember it. I don't remember that there was ever anything or anybody before I met you'—and all the talk is off.

"You remember Charlie Gifford, don't you? We were born in the same town, and went to the same kindergarten, the same grammar school and the same high school, and when Charlie went to college he used to write and tell me about all his new girls, and everything.

"Charlie was the first person I told when Stacy and I were engaged, he was the best man at my wedding, and he's godfather to our little Stacy. But can I get in one word edgewise with Charlie? Not if you notice it. Charlie's wife won't let him say one word to me.

"No, she isn't jealous of me. She couldn't be that. But she doesn't want Charlie to have one idea in his head, or one beat of his heart, without her being in it.

"Charlie said to me the other day, 'Seems to me I don't see much of you and Stace lately; what's the matter, are you outgrowing us?'

"I wonder if Charlie will wake up some day, and want to be not a twin, Siamese or otherwise, but just a plain, everyday man standing on his own feet, and having a friend or two of his own.

"Stacy says he doesn't think Charlie will stand it forever and when he does get this Siamese twin thing into his head—look out, look out for trouble."

I've been thinking about the Siamese twins ever since I heard Sue mention them, and I don't think I like them, either. I like Bill to be Bill, and Stella to be Stella, and my friends to be my friends—not just the half of another person. And I wonder if most people of any real intelligence don't feel the same way?

How about you?
